

Vitruvian Man Meets the Scientific Method Writing and Testing Appropriate Hypotheses

Leonardo da Vinci's drawing, Vitruvian Man, shows how the proportions of the human body fit perfectly into a circle and a square. This diagram by Leonardo da Vinci is an illustration of "Vitruvian Theory." According to Vitruvian Theory, the relationship between shapes and lengths (area) should be used to determine what is or isn't right. In this activity, you will explore the hypothesis of "Vitruvian Theory" by developing appropriate responding Vitruvian Man.

1. Hypotheses are general statements that are all observations or events for scientific experiments. A hypothesis is generally a test statement. Formulated by prediction and generally consistent to theoretical theories using its own assumptions. For example:

- (a) If we use blue and red flower elements in food, then when I repeat a divided feeding with a white color, it will stop.
- (b) If increasing physical activity causes a person to have caloric and low weight, then I should lower weight after a week of doing a day.

Formulated hypothesis contains a dependent variable independent variable. The independent variable is the one that you change and the dependent variable is the one that you observe and measure or collect data. Formulate a hypothesis that says "If the temperature is decreased then the speed will also decrease" (speed is dependent on temperature). In this example, temperature is the independent variable because the temperature is being manipulated. Speed is the dependent variable because the speed will also decrease as temperature is being manipulated. During the collection process the speed is used to check dependent variable speed.

PURPOSE

Students will gain understanding of the hypothesis regarding "Vitruvian Man" and related proportions. In that it yields all observations or hypotheses concerning observations, hypotheses and related lengths.
