Comparative Postcolonialism in the Works of V.S. Naipaul and Toni Morrison Alshaymaa Mohamed Ahmed, 2022-07-07

Comparative Postcolonialism in the Works of V S Naipaul and Toni Morrison Fragmented Identities begins with an overview of its theoretical framework highlighting the intersectional relationship between postcolonial literature and comparative literature Tracing selected novels by Naipaul and Morrison the book takes as a starting point Fanon s three phase journey of the decolonizing process In the first phase of mimicry Naipaul s and Morrison s earlier novels represent the assimilation of indigenous people into dominant hegemonic cultures The second phase is envisioned as the re narration or re interpretation of the past and old legends of indigenous culture Morrison succeeds in asserting that her ancestors past is the only way to celebrate a cultural identity but Naipaul tends to criticize and neglect his past and his original indigenous culture The third phase marks the emergence of a revolutionary literature in which Naipaul and Morrison guide their people to hybridity as a new way of becoming and resisting the hegemonic dichotomies in dominant societies

A Study of Scarlett's Margaret Donovan Bauer, 2014-07-31

This comparative study examines Scarlett O Hara as a literary archetype revealing critical prejudice against strong female characters There are two portrayals of Scarlett O'Hara the famous one of the film Gone with the Wind and Margaret Mitchell's more sympathetic character in the book In A Study of Scarlett's Margaret D. Bauer examines both noting that although Scarlett is just sixteen at the start of the novel she is criticized for behavior that would have been excused if she were a man Her stalwart determination in the face of extreme adversity made Scarlett an icon and an inspiration to female readers Yet today she is often condemned as a sociopathic shrew Bauer offers a more complex and sympathetic reading of Scarlett before examining Scarlett like characters in other novels including Charles Frazier's Cold Mountain Ellen Glasgow's Barren Ground Toni Morrison's Sula and Kat Meads The Invented Life of Kitty Duncan Through these selections Bauer touches on themes of female independence mother daughter relationships the fraught nature of romance and the importance of female friendship

The Cambridge Companion to American Literature and the Body Travis M. Foster, 2022-06-30 The human body has been depicted in a variety of ways across a range of cultural and historical locations It has been described variously as a biological entity clothing for the soul a site of cultural production a psychosexual construct and a material encumbrance Each of these different approaches brings with it a range of anthropological political theological and psychological discourses that explore and construct identities and subject positions This Companion examines connections between American literature and bodies from the eighteenth century through the present It reveals the singular way that literature can help us understand the body's entanglement within social and biological influences and it traces the body's existence within histories of race gender and ability This volume details the genres critical fields and interpretive practices that best facilitate the analysis of bodies in the full span of American literary imaginings Race, Trauma, and Home in the Novels of Toni Morrison Evelyn Jaffe Schreiber, 2010-12 In this first interdisciplinary study of all nine of Nobel Laureate Toni Morrison's novels Evelyn Jaffe Schreiber investigates how the communal and personal trauma of slavery embedded in the bodies and minds of its victims lives on through successive generations of African Americans Approaching trauma from several cutting edge theoretical perspectives psychoanalytic neurobiological and cultural and social theories Schreiber analyzes the lasting effects of slavery as depicted in Morrison's work and considers the almost insurmountable task of recovering from trauma to gain subjectivity With an innovative application of neuroscience to literary criticism Schreiber explains how trauma whether initiated by physical abuse dehumanization discrimination exclusion or abandonment becomes embedded in both psychic and bodily circuits Slavery and its legacy of cultural rejection create trauma on individual familial and community levels and parents unwittingly transmit their trauma to their children through repetition of their bodily stored experiences Concepts of home whether a physical place community or relationship are reconstructed through memory to provide a positive self and serve as a healing space for Morrison's characters Remembering and retelling trauma within a supportive community enables trauma victims to move forward and attain a meaningful subjectivity and selfhood Through careful analysis of each novel Schreiber traces the success or failure of Morrison's characters to build or rebuild a cohesive self starting with slavery and the initial postslavery generation and continuing through the twentieth century with a special focus on the effects of inherited trauma on children When characters attempt to escape trauma through physical relocation or to project their pain onto others through aggressive behavior or scapegoating the development of selfhood falters Only when trauma is confronted through verbalization and challenged with reparative images of home can memories of a positive self overcome the pain of past experiences and cultural rejection While the cultural trauma of slavery can never truly disappear Schreiber argues that memories that reconstruct a positive self whether created by people relationships a physical place or a concept help Morrison s characters to establish subjectivity A groundbreaking interdisciplinary work Schreiber s book unites psychoanalytic neurobiological and social theories into a full and richly textured analysis of trauma and the possibility of healing in Morrison s novels
