

Abstract This paper presents the results of a study on the effects of a training program on the performance of a group of students. The study was conducted over a period of 12 weeks, and the results show that the training program had a significant positive effect on the students' performance. The study also found that the training program had a significant positive effect on the students' self-confidence and self-efficacy. The results of the study suggest that the training program is an effective way to improve the performance of a group of students.

Variable	Coefficient	Standard Error	t-statistic	p-value
Age of the head of household	0.05	0.02	2.50	0.01
Gender of the head of household (Male = 1, Female = 0)	-0.10	0.03	-3.33	0.00
Constant	1.50	0.10	15.00	0.00

The regression results indicate that the number of children in the household is positively related to the age of the head of household and negatively related to the gender of the head of household. Specifically, for every one-year increase in the age of the head of household, the number of children in the household increases by 0.05, holding all other variables constant. Conversely, for every one-unit increase in the gender variable (from female to male), the number of children in the household decreases by 0.10, holding all other variables constant.
