Town Planning For Australia Studies In International Planning History:

Town Planning for Australia George Taylor,2014-08-07 George Taylor's Town Planning for Australia was the first dedicated book on the subject of urban planning published in Australia. Journalistic and ideological in style, it sets out a robust vision for a specifically Australian approach to planning and development of towns in a young country. Taylor was a controversial figure, a political activist and publisher who brought the NSW Town Planning Association into existence and played a key role in publishing and promoting planning into the 1920s. His wife Florence Taylor was the first female qualified architect and trained engineer in Australia and an important figure in the history of planning and publishing in Australia.

The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education Nancey Green Leigh, Steven P French, Subhrajit Guhathakurta, Bruce Stiftel, 2019-07-23 The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education is the first comprehensive handbook with a unique focus on planning education. Comparing approaches to the delivery of planning education by three major planning education accreditation bodies in the United States, Australia, and the United Kingdom, and reflecting concerns from other national planning systems, this handbook will help to meet the strong interest and need for understanding how planning education is developed and delivered in different international contexts. The handbook is divided into five major sections including coverage of general planning knowledge, planning skills, traditional and emerging planning specializations, and pedagogy. An international cohort of contributors covers each subject's role in educating planners, its theory and methods, key literature, contributions, and course design. Higher education's response to globalization has included growth in planning educational exchanges across international boundaries. The Routledge Handbook of International Planning Education is an essential resource for planners and planning educators informing the dialogue on the mobility of planners educated under different national schemes.

The Routledge Handbook of Planning History Carola Hein, 2017-12-14 2018 IPHS Special Book Prize Award Recipient The Routledge Handbook of Planning History offers a comprehensive interdisciplinary overview of planning history since its emergence in the late 19th century, investigating the history of the discipline, its core writings, key people, institutions, vehicles, education, and practice. Combining theoretical, methodological, historical, comparative, and global approaches to planning history, The Routledge Handbook of Planning History explores the state of the discipline, its achievements and shortcomings, and its future challenges. A foundation for the discipline and a springboard for scholarly research, The Routledge Handbook of Planning History explores planning history on an international scale in thirty-eight chapters, providing readers with unique opportunities for comparison. The diverse contributions open up new perspectives on the many ways in which contemporary events, changing research needs, and cutting-edge methodologies shape the writing of planning history. Designing Australia's Cities Robert Freestone, 2020-09-29 Accessible and comprehensive written by the current President of the International Planning History Society this volume provides readers with a highly visual account of historical contemporary and international projects Looking at the ways in which the City Beautiful movement influenced the design and development of Australian cities this pioneering national study surveys the ruling ideas influences outcomes and enduring legacies of the early artistic turn in Australian urban design With the return of the American City Beautiful movement to the forefront of urban design Designing Australia's Cities is a relevant account of the ways in which this movement influenced and shaped Australian city design but more importantly sheds light on a planning culture that stretches far beyond Australia and is of increasing relevance worldwide today Laying bare an important design and reform movement whose under appreciated legacy is clearly evident in urban landscapes today this book is ideal for students of planning architecture urban design and the history of planning The Routledge Handbook of Regional Design Michael Neuman, Wil

Zonneveld, 2021-04-14 The Routledge Handbook of Regional Design explores contemporary research policy and practice that highlight critical aspects of strategy making planning and designing for contemporary regions including city regions bioregions delta regions and their hybrids As accelerating urbanization and globalization combine with other forces such as the demand for increasing returns on investment capital migration and innovation they yield cities that are expanding over ever larger territories Moreover these polycentric city regions themselves are agglomerating with one another to create new territorial mega regions The processes that beget these novel regional forms produce numerous and significant effects positive and negative that call for new modes of design and management so that the urban places and the lives and well being of their inhabitants and businesses thrive sustainably into the future With international case studies from leading scholars and practitioners this book is an important resource not just for students researchers and practitioners of urban planning but also policy makers developers architects engineers and anyone interested in the broader issues of urbanism

Urban Nation Robert Freestone, 2010-04-01 Urban Nation Australia's Planning Heritage provides the first national survey of the historical impact of urban planning and design on the Australian landscape This ambitious account looks at every state and territory from the earliest days of European settlement to the present day It identifies and documents hundreds of places parks public spaces redeveloped precincts neighbourhoods suburbs up to whole towns that contribute to the distinctive character of urban and suburban Australia It sets these significant planned landscapes within the broader context of both international design trends and Australian efforts at nation and city building Planning in an Uncanny World Nicholas A. Phelps, Judy Bush, Anna Hurlimann, 2022-12-23 This book places Australian conditions and urban planning centrally within comparative analysis of planning systems and cultures around the world to address issues including urban governance climate change transportation planning regional development and migration planning Australian urban conditions and their associated planning responses can and often have been seen as unique or exceptional They are seldom discussed in the same breath as conditions and associated planning systems internationally Yet as well as being somewhat different from those elsewhere in the world Australian urban conditions and planning responses are also somewhat similar They are uncanny strangely familiar yet unfamiliar In this book Australian urban conditions and their planning policies and practices are informally compared and contrasted with those existing internationally If Australian urban planning policy and practice have had limited influence internationally the partial familiarity of challenges posed by its urban conditions ensure that Australia is a more important global reference point for scholarship and practice than commonly is appreciated In this book the authors assert the potential and actual originality of urban planning scholarship arising from the Australian context It will be useful for students and faculty planners working in Australia as well as anyone interested in international planning debates Australian urban land use planning Nicole Gurran, 2011 Urban and regional planning is increasingly central to public policy in Australia and internationally As cities and regions adapt to profound economic societal and technological shifts new urban and environmental problems are emerging from inadequate systems of transport and infrastructure to declining housing affordability biodiversity loss and human induced climate change Australian urban land use planning provides a practical understanding of the principles processes and mechanisms for strategic and proactive urban governance Substantially updated and expanded this second edition explains and compares the legislation policy and plan making development assessment and dispute resolution processes of Australia's eight state and territorial planning jurisdictions as well as the changing role of the Commonwealth in environmental and urban policy. This new edition also extends the coverage of planning practice with a new chapter on planning for climate change, a more detailed treatment of planning for housing diversity and affordability and a comprehensive analysis of the New South Wales planning system and its evolution over the last 30 years. Nicole Gurran is an associate professor in the Urban and Regional Planning Program at the University of Sydney. Her research focuses on comparative planning approaches to housing, ecological sustainability and climate change. Prior to joining the University of Sydney, she practised as a planner in several state government roles focusing on local environmental plan making, environmental management and housing policy. She is on the Executive Board of the International Urban Planning and Environment Association.

Community Green David Nichols, Robert Freestone, 2024-02-06

Neighbourhood open space ranks highly as a key component in suburban liveability assessments originating from the development of urban planning as a profession and the proliferation of the garden suburb. Community Green uniquely connects the past, present and future of planning for small open spaces around the narrative of internal reserves. The distinctive planned spaces are typically enclosed on every side, hidden within residential blocks serving as local pocket parks and reflecting the evolving values of community life from the garden city movement to contemporary new urbanism. This book resuscitates the enclosed, almost secretive reserve from history as a distinctive form of local open space whose problems and potentialities are relevant to many other green community spaces. In so doing, it opens up even wider connections between localism and globalism, the past and the future, and for connecting community initiatives to broader global challenges of cohesion, health, food and climate change. This fully illustrated book charts the outcomes and implications of this evolution across several continents, injecting human stories of civic initiatives, struggles and triumphs along the way. Community Green will be of interest to a wide readership interested in studying, managing and improving the quality of all small open spaces in the urban landscape.

APAIS 1992: Australian public affairs information service, Australia and China Perspectives on Urban Regeneration and Rural Revitalization Raffaele Pernice, Bing Chen, 2024-04-30

This edited volume reviews important contemporary issues through relevant case studies and research in China and Australia, such as the challenges posed by climate change, the development of eco-urban design, research on sustainable habitats and the relationship between ecology, green architecture and city regeneration, as well as, in general, the future of the city in the new millennium. The authors represent a broad selection of international experts, young scholars and established academics who discuss themes related to urban, rural, destruction and economic and spatial regeneration techniques, the sustainable reconversion of natural landscapes and eco-urban design in the context of the current evolution of architectural and urbanism practice. The book aims to explain the conditions in which the contemporary debate about urban regeneration and rural revitalisation has developed in Australia and China presented by different theoretical and methodological perspectives It also provides a multifaceted and critical analysis of relevant case studies and urban experiences in Australia and China focusing on environmental disruption resized urban interventions and the need for more efficient and sustainable forms of regeneration and urban renewal practice in urban rural contexts This book will be an invaluable resource for architects planners architectural and urban historians geographers and scholars interested in modern Australian and Chinese architecture and urbanism

Australia's Unintended Cities Richard Tomlinson, 2012-11-23 Australia's Unintended Cities identifies and researches housing and housing related urban outcomes that are unintended consequences of other policies the structure of incentives and disincentives for the housing market and governance arrangements for metropolitan areas and planning and service delivery It is argued that unintended consequences have a greater impact on the housing market and Australia's cities and their future than policies directly concerned with housing urban policy and metropolitan strategic planning The book will inform policy makers including government officials consultants and politicians It will also be used by academics and students in various areas of urban policy such as housing and urban planning as well as environment public policy and economics

Planning Cultures in Europe Frank Othengrafen, 2016-12-05 Bringing together an interdisciplinary team from across the EU this book connects elements of cultural and planning theories to explain differences and peculiarities among EU member states A culturized planning model is introduced to consider the rules of the game how culture affects planning practices not only on an explicit surface but also on a hidden implicit level The model consists of three analytical dimensions planning artifacts planning environment and societal environment This book adopts these dimensions to compare planning cultures of different European countries This sheds light not only on the organizational or institutional structure of planning but also the influence of deeper cultural values and layers on planning and implementation processes
