time Optimizing the Nation's Investment in Academic Research National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Policy and Global Affairs, Board on Higher Education and Workforce, Committee on Science, Technology, and Law, Committee on Federal Research Regulations and Reporting Requirements: A New Framework for Research Universities in the 21st Century, 2016-07-29 Research universities are critical contributors to our national research enterprise. They are the principal source of a world class labor force and fundamental discoveries that enhance our lives and the lives of others around the world. These institutions help to create an educated citizenry capable of making informed and crucial choices as participants in a democratic society. However, many are concerned that the unintended cumulative effect of federal regulations undercuts the productivity of the research enterprise and diminishes the return on the federal investment in research. Optimizing the Nation's Investment in Academic Research reviews the regulatory framework as it currently exists, considers specific regulations that have placed undue and often unanticipated burdens on the research enterprise, and reassesses the process by which these regulations are created, reviewed, and retired. This review is critical to strengthen the partnership between the federal government and research institutions to maximize the creation of new knowledge and products to provide for the effective training and education of the next generation of scholars and workers and to optimize the return on the federal investment in research for the benefit of the American people. Coconino, Kaibab, and Prescott National Forests (N.F.), Integrated Treatment of Noxious and Invasive Weeds, 2005 Essentials of Public Health Preparedness Rebecca Katz, 2013 Katz provides a comprehensive guide for understanding and managing public health emergencies in an increasingly interconnected world. The globalization of the world's food supply and the speed and volume of international travel have increased communities' vulnerability to infectious disease, biological weapons, and new agents anywhere in the world. Federal Register, 2012-10 Report of Proceedings - National Academy of Sciences National Academy of Sciences (U.S.), 1939 New Technologies and the Law of Armed Conflict Hitoshi Nasu, Robert McLaughlin, 2013-12-23 Modern technological development has been both rapid and fundamentally transformative of the means and methods of warfare and of the broader environment in which warfare is conducted. In many cases, technological development has been stimulated by and dedicated to addressing military requirements. On other occasions, technological developments outside the military sphere affect or inform the conduct of warfare and military expectations. The introduction of new technologies such as information technology, space technologies, nanotechnology, and robotic technologies into our civil life and into warfare is expected to influence the application and interpretation of the existing rules of the law of armed conflict. In this book, scholars and practitioners working in the fields critically examine the potential legal challenges arising from the use of new technologies and future directions of legal development in light of the specific characteristics and challenges each technology presents with regard to foreseeable humanitarian impacts upon the battlespace.
