The Right to Leave and Return and Chinese Migration Law Guofu Liu, 2007

Although the Right to Leave and Return RLR is a fundamental human right each State has the sovereign right to regulate RLR in accordance with its own laws In the case of China the country s communist political system has significantly affected the development of RLR and the country s approach to it As a rule China s approach is restrictive As part of its reform and opening up policies China has embarked on a range of reforms to liberalise RLR but the reforms lack cohesion and focus and remain restrictive Given its past and its complex social and economic conditions China may have some justifications for its approach but on balance has more to gain from adopting a more liberal approach The issue of RLR in China is crucial both for the future of China and for development of RLR in the world

The Right to Leave and Return RLR and Chinese Migration Law provides a comprehensive and systematic review of the RLR in international and Chinese migration law It has been written on the basis of Chinese statutes pertinent to the RLR also of relevant international instruments and key cases It investigates RLR in international migration law and practice analyses RLR in the context of China and identifies its driving factors investigates the conditions and practical concerns relevant to the protection of RLR and concludes with recommendations on how the Chinese regulatory regime governing RLR can be improved

Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning Elana Michelson, Alan Mandell, 2023-08-11

For over thirty years portfolios have been used to help adult learners gain recognition for their prior learning and take greater control of their educational experiences The portfolio has become a distinctive means of assessing such learning serving as a meaningful alternative to conventional papers and standardized testing provides a primer of flexible approaches to shaping and conducting portfolio development courses. It offers practitioners in the field an extensive range of model assignments, readings, and classroom activities, each organized around a specific theme: Academic Orientation, The Meaning of Education, Personal Exploration, Learning from the Outsider, Within The World of Work and Careers, and Dimensions of Expertise. Twelve case studies by practitioners in the field then show how academics in the US and around the English speaking world have adapted the portfolio to changing circumstances in order to deliver academically rich educational services for adults. These case studies highlight portfolio development in the context of web based instruction, changing institutional imperatives, service to historically disenfranchised groups, partnerships with industry, and cross institutional cooperation. In addition to serving as a valuable hands on resource for practitioners, Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning locates portfolios and assessment in a broad social and intellectual context. Thus the authors also offer an historical overview of the usefulness of portfolios in the assessment of prior learning and then consider their use in the future given current trends in higher education for adults. The book explores the implications of a changing educational landscape in which new student populations, budgetary pressures, and understandings of knowledge both enrich and challenge student centered approaches such as portfolios. The approaches and case studies are not only valuable to adult educators but equally to faculty in higher education concerned with the development of competency and outcomes based assessment.

Portfolio Development and the Assessment of Prior Learning Perspectives Models and Practices
