My experience attending the 5 meetings in February – March was only partly that of an experienced design researcher who had worked more than a few years in the industry without having experienced that particular brand of stress and creative stagnation. I learned from the participants about the physical reality of what I was doing and how to get things done in a more efficient manner. I learned that I was not alone in my experience and that I was not alone in my feelings. I learned that I was not alone in my experience and that I was not alone in my feelings. I learned that I was not alone in my experience and that I was not alone in my feelings.

I believe that the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering (ISE) should promote an integrated learning environment for an interdisciplinary approach through its academic advisory programs that provide mathematics, statistics, and computer science as additional rather than engineering subjects. Mathematical concepts have been applied in previous research (Hyndy, 1999) where research groups have synthesized the engineering and mathematical sciences in mathematics. I believe that ISE should have the opportunity to expand on the knowledge I was introduced to as "Math Week". I am excited to be able present to that learning system as the E Symposium on Industrial and Systems Engineering through the integration of the academic knowledge and my personal/industry-related studies as research in an interdisciplinary environment.
