Using the Engineering Literature Bonnie A. Osif, 2016-04-19 With the encroachment of the Internet into nearly all aspects of work and life it seems as though information is everywhere However there is information and then there is correct appropriate and timely information While we might love being able to turn to Wikipedia for encyclopedia like information or search Google for the thousands of links Databases for Data-Centric Geotechnics Kok-Kwang Phoon, Chong Tang, 2024-12-20 Databases for Data Centric Geotechnics forms a definitive reference and guide to databases in geotechnical and rock engineering to enhance decision making in geotechnical practice using data driven methods This first volume pertains to site characterization The opening chapter presents an in depth analysis of site data attributes including the establishment of a new taxonomy of site data under 4S site generalizations spatial features sampling characteristics and smart data to provide a novel agenda for data driven site characterization Type 3 machine learning methods disruptive value are possible as sensors become more pervasive and more intelligent A comprehensive overview of site characterization information is also presented with a focus on its availability coverage value to decision making and challenges The remaining 13 chapters cover databases of soil and rock properties and the application of these databases to rock socket behavior rock classification settlement on soft marine clays permeability of fine grained soils and liquefaction among others The databases were compiled from studies undertaken in many countries including Austria Australia Brazil Canada China France Finland Germany India Iran Japan Korea Malaysia Mexico New Zealand Norway Singapore Sweden Thailand the United Kingdom and the United States This volume on site characterization is a companion to the volume on geotechnical structures Databases for Data Centric Geotechnics represents the most diverse and comprehensive assembly of database research in a single publication consisting of two volumes to date It follows from Model Uncertainties for Foundation Design also published by CRC Press and suits specialist geotechnical engineers researchers and graduate students Analysis, Design and Construction of Foundations Yung Ming Cheng, Chi Wai Law, Leilei Liu, 2024-05-28 Analysis Design and Construction of Foundations covers the key concepts in the analysis and design of foundation systems balancing theory with engineering practice The book examines in depth the methods used for the analysis design and construction of shallow foundations deep foundations excavation and lateral support systems slope stability and stabilization and ground monitoring for proper site management Some new and innovative foundation construction methods are also introduced It is illustrated with case studies of failures and defects from actual construction projects This second edition is extensively revised and developed to include a new chapter on numerical methods in geotechnical engineering as well as a large number of new construction drawings project photos and construction method statements from existing projects to give the book a stronger professional application and connection to engineering practice It also covers some new advanced theoretical concepts not covered in other texts making it useful in both the theoretical and practical aspects It is ideal for senior undergraduates and graduate students academics and consulting geotechnical engineers

Rural Road Engineering in Developing Countries Jasper Cook, Robert Christopher Petts, 2023-08-02 Rural Road Engineering in Developing Countries provides a comprehensive coverage of the planning design construction and maintenance of rural roads in developing countries and emerging nations It covers a wide range of technical and non technical problems that may confront road engineers working in the developing world focusing on rural roads which provide important links from villages and farms to markets and offer the public access to health education and other services essential for sustainable development Most textbooks on road engineering are based on experience in industrialised countries with temperate climates or deal only with specific issues with many aspects of the design and construction of roads in developing regions stemming from inappropriate research undertaken in Europe and the USA These approaches are frequently unsuitable and unsustainable for rural road network environments particularly in low to middle income countries This book takes on board a more recent research and application focus on rural roads integrating it for a broad range of readers to access current information on good practice for sustainable road engineering in developing countries The book particularly suits transportation engineers development professionals and graduate students in civil engineering

More than ten years have passed since the first edition was published During that period there have been a substantial number of changes in geotechnical engineering especially in the applications of foundation engineering As the world population increases more land is needed and many soil deposits previously deemed unsuitable for residential housing or other construction projects are now being used Such areas include problematic soil regions mining subsidence areas and sanitary landfills To overcome the problems associated with these natural or man made soil deposits new and improved methods of analysis design and implementation are needed in foundation construction As society develops and living standards rise tall buildings transportation facilities and industrial complexes are increasingly being built Because of the heavy design loads and the complicated environments the traditional design concepts construction materials methods and equipment also need improvement Further recent energy and material shortages have caused additional burdens on the engineering profession and brought about the need to seek alternative or cost saving methods for foundation design and construction
