Literacy and Advocacy in Adolescent Family, Gang, School, and Juvenile Court Communities Debra Smith, Kathryn F. Whitmore, 2006-08-15 The goal of this book is to encourage educators and researchers to understand the complexities of adolescent gang members' lives in order to rethink their assumptions about these students in school The particular objective is to situate four gang members as literate caring students from loving families whose identities and literacy keep them on the margins of school The research described in this book suggests that advocacy is a particularly effective form of critical ethnography Smith and Whitmore argue that until schools as communities of practice enable children and adolescents to retain identities from the communities in which they are full community members frightening numbers of students are destined to fail The stories of four Mexican American male adolescents who were active members of a gang and Smith's students in an alternative high school program portray the complicated multiple worlds in which these boys live As sons and teenage parents they live in a family community as CRIP members they live in a gang community as at risk students drop outs and graduates they live in a school community and as a result of their illegal activities they live in the juvenile court community The authors theorize about the boys literacy in each of their communities Literacy is viewed as ideological related to power and embedded in a sociocultural context Vivid examples of conversation art tagging rap poetry and other language and literacy events bring the narratives to life in figures and photographs in all the chapters Readers will find this book engaging and readable yet thought provoking and challenging Audiences for Literacy and Advocacy in Adolescent Family Gang School and Juvenile Court Communities include education researchers professionals and students in the areas of middle high school education at risk adolescent psychology and alternative community programs specifically those interested in literacy education sociocultural theory and popular culture Field
