Unreconciled Andrea Smith, 2019-12-13 In the 1990s many evangelical Christian organizations and church leaders began to acknowledge their long history of racism and launched efforts at becoming more inclusive of people of color While much of this racial reconciliation movement has not directly confronted systemic racism's structural causes there exists a smaller countermovement within evangelicalism primarily led by women of color who are actively engaged in antiracism and social justice struggles In Unreconciled Andrea Smith examines these movements through a critical ethnic studies lens evaluating the varying degrees to which evangelical communities that were founded on white supremacy have addressed racism Drawing on evangelical publications sermons and organization statements as well as ethnographic fieldwork and participation in evangelical events Smith shows how evangelicalism is largely unable to effectively challenge white supremacy due to its reliance upon discourses of whiteness At the same time the work of progressive evangelical women of color not only demonstrates that evangelical Christianity can be an unexpected place in which to find theoretical critique and social justice organizing but also shows how critical ethnic studies interventions can be applied broadly across political and religious divides outside the academy

Nationalism and Youth in Theatre and Performance Victoria Pettersen Lantz, Angela Sweigart-Gallagher, 2014-07-11
Nationalism and Youth in Theatre and Performance explores how children and young people fit into national political theatre and moreover how youth enact interrogative patriotic and or antagonistic performances as they develop their own relationship with nationhood Children are often seen as excluded from public discourse or political action However this idea of exclusion is false both because adults place children at the center of political debates with the rhetoric of future generations and because children actively insert themselves into public discourse Whether performing a national anthem for visiting heads of state creating a school play about a country's birth or marching in protest of a change in public policy young people use theatre and performance as a means of publicly staking a claim in national politics directly engaging with ideas of nationalism around the world This collection explores the issues of how children fit into national discourse on international stages The authors focus on national performances by for with youth and examine a wide range of performances from across the globe from parades and protests to devised and traditional theatre Nationalism and Youth in Theatre and Performance rethinks how national performance is defined and offers previously unexplored historical and theoretical discussions of political youth performance
