

A Sound of Thunder

INTRODUCTION

BRIEF BIOGRAPHY OF Ray Bradbury

Bradbury spent his childhood in Chicago. After the family moved west from Los Angeles to Santa Monica, California, in 1930, a school teacher, Bradbury's mother, started reading to him at the age of 12. After finishing high school, Bradbury went into electric work, but he never liked it and continued his reading in his spare time. He started writing his first story, "The Land," in 1938, just before the United States entered World War II. Bradbury was not allowed to go to the war; instead, he managed to become a radio writer while serving in the war. He published his first story in Amazing Stories in 1942. That was also the year "The Martian Way" and "The Foghorn" were published. Bradbury published his first novel, Invitation of a Small Summer, in 1948. The book, which was incredibly well received, gave the story concerns about receiving the information. Bradbury also wrote science fiction and nonfiction about the future, including his two books, The Martian Way and The Foghorn. Bradbury repeatedly wrote about the future, the importance of science, and the future of the world. He wrote the novel The Sound of Thunder in 1949, during the war. Bradbury and his wife, Jane, lived in Los Angeles.
