Tate Introductions Matisse:

Tate Introductions: Matisse Juliette Rizzi, 2014-10-21 French artist Henri Matisse 1869 1954 is commonly regarded along with Pablo Picasso and Marcel Duchamp as one of the three artists who helped to define the revolutionary artistic developments of the opening decades of the 20th century His mastery of the expressive language of color and drawing displayed in a body of work spanning over a half century has won him recognition as a leading figure in the development of modern art

Tate Introductions: Warhol Stephanie Straine, 2014-11-07 A central figure in pop art Andy Warhol 1928 1987 was one of the most significant and influential artists of the later twentieth century In the 1960s he began to explore the growing interplay between mass culture and the visual arts and his constant experimentation with new processes for the dissemination of art played a pivotal role in redefining access to culture and art as we know it today At the height of his fame Warhol claimed he was abandoning painting shifting his practice towards a commitment to the theoretically limitless channels of publishing film fashion music and broadcasting It was this transmission of art and radical ideas that embodied his ethical conviction that art should be for everyone Stephanie Straine is Assistant Curator at Tate Liverpool and specialises in American art of the 1960s Her lively yet authoritative text provides the perfect introduction to the life and work of a pioneering artist whose legacy extends into the digital age

Tate Introductions: Chagall Monica Bohm-Duchen, 2013-09-03 Born in 1887 in what is now Belarus Marc Chagall is one of the best known artists of the twentieth century His combination of wistful fantastical scenes and vibrant palette have ensured his enduring popularity but he is also considered an important pioneer of modern art whose sense of colour was rivalled only by that of Matisse Time spent studying in Russia and Paris developed what would embody Chagall's style for his entire career drawing inspiration from his Jewish identity folklore nostalgia and religion This together with the influence of the fauvist cubist and symbolist movements he experienced in Paris created his distinct style that was accessible but at the same time remote and other worldly and the wider world in the field of art and material culture Art in Theory The West in the World is a ground breaking anthology that comprehensively examines the relationship of Western art to the art and material culture of the wider world. Editors Paul Wood and Leon Wainwright have included 370 texts some of which appear in English for the first time. The anthologized texts are presented in eight chronological parts which are then subdivided into key themes appropriate to each historical era. The majority of the texts are representations of changing ideas about the cultures of the world by European artists and intellectuals but increasingly as the modern period develops and especially as colonialism is challenged a variety of dissenting voices begin to claim their space and a counter narrative to western hegemony develops. Over half the book is devoted to 20th and 21st century materials though the book's unique selling point is the way it relates the modern globalization of art to much longer cultural histories. As well as the anthologized material Art in Theory The West in the World contains a general introduction discussing the scope of the collection. Introductory essays to each of the eight parts outlining the main themes in their historical contexts. Individual introductions to each text explaining how they relate to the wider theoretical and political currents of their time. Intended for a wide audience the book is essential reading for students on courses in art and art history. It will also be useful to specialists in the field of art history and readers with a general interest in the culture and politics of the modern world.
