South African Defence Force Application For 2015

Robert J. Griffiths

South African Defence Force Application For 2015:

South Africa's Post-Apartheid Military Lindy Heineken, 2020-01-01 This timely book examines how the South African National Defence Force has adapted to the country's new security political and social environment since 1994. In South Africa's changed political state, how has civilian control of the military been implemented and what does this mean for defence in a democracy? This book presents an overview of the security environment, how the mission focus of the military has changed and the implications for force procurement, force preparation, force employment and force sustainability. The author addresses other issues such as the effect of integrating former revolutionary soldiers into a professional armed force, the effect of affirmative action on meritocracy, recruitment and retention, military veterans looking at the difficulties they face in reintegrating back into society and finding gainful employment, gender equality and mainstreaming the rise of military unions and why a confrontational instead of a more corporatist approach to labour relations has emerged. HIV/AIDS and the consequences this holds for the military in terms of its operational effectiveness. In closing, the author highlights key events that have caused the SANDF to become lost in transition and transformation, spelling out some lessons learned. The conclusions she draws are pertinent for the future of defence security and civil-military relations of countries around the world.

Exploring Complicity Michael Neu, Robin Dunford, Afxentis Afxentiou, 2016-12-15 Questions of complicity emerge within a range of academic disciplines and everyday practices. Using a wide range of case studies, this book explores the concept of and cases of complicity in an interdisciplinary context. It expands orthodox understandings of the concept by including the notion of structural complicity, revealing seemingly inconsequential everyday forms of complicity, examining different kinds and degrees of individual and collective complicity and introducing complicity as a lens through which to analyse and critically reflect upon social structures and relations. It also explores complicity through a series of cases emerging from a variety of academic disciplines and professional practices. Its various chapters reflect on, amongst other things, the complicity of politicians, self-proclaimed feminists, health care workers, fictional characters, social movement activists and academic defenders of torture.

The Second World War in East Africa, 1940-1941, 2024-12-16 As a first of its kind, this edited collection brings together a variety of chapters dealing with different topics that address where possible most of the participants involved in or affected by the conflict, as well as different, often neglected aspects of the East Africa campaign of the Second World War. In doing so, this volume not only makes a definite contribution to the broader historiography and to our understanding of a diverse, complex Second World War, but will also serve as an impetus for further topical research on an important yet neglected campaign of the war.

Naval Powers in the Indian Ocean and the Western Pacific Howard M. Hensel, Amit Gupta, 2018-05-11 A vital component of the interdependent global economy, maritime transit routes are nowhere more critical than those traversing the Indian Ocean and the Western Pacific. Previously, areas of the Indian Ocean and Western Pacific have been viewed as separate and discrete political, economic and military regions. In recent years however a variety of economic political and military forces have created a new understanding of these maritime expanses as one zone of global interaction This book complements the material presented in its companion volume Maritime Security in the Indian Ocean and the Western Pacific by analysing the perceptions interests objectives maritime capabilities and policies of the major maritime powers operating in the Indian Ocean and the Western Pacific In addition the book also assesses the contemporary maritime challenges and opportunities that confront the global community within what is rapidly becoming recognised as an integrated zone of global interaction A valuable study for researchers and policymakers working in the fields of maritime security military security and peace studies conflict resolution and Asian affairs Securing the MRAP James Hasik, 2021-08-16 Dwight D Eisenhower once quipped You will not find it difficult to prove that battles campaigns and even wars have been won or lost primarily because of logistics Military acquisition and procurement that is how a nation manages investments technologies programs and support is critical to wartime success or failure When unexpected battlefield problems arise how do the government the military and industry work together to ensure effective solutions During the American counterinsurgent campaign in Iraq the improvised explosive device emerged as a disruptive and devastating threat As Humvees and their occupants were ripped apart by IEDs it was clear that new solutions had to be found These solutions already existed but had not been procured highlighting the need for more effective marketing to the military by industry The ultimate successful response the mine resistant ambush protected vehicle or MRAP required years of entrepreneurial marketing by the defense industry In Securing the MRAP Lessons Learned in Marketing and Military Procurement James Hasik explores how these vehicles which the American military mostly rejected despite the great need for them eventually came to be adopted as the Pentagon's top procurement priority Hasik traces the story of the MRAP from the early 1970s to the future of mine resistant vehicles on the battlefields of tomorrow An important contribution to the seemingly disparate fields of marketing and defense policy Securing the MRAP is an eye opening revelation to defense industrialists military officers and government officials who want to understand how to avoid another IED Humvee debacle

Capacity Building for Maritime Security Christian Bueger, Timothy Edmunds, Robert McCabe, 2020-10-09 This book studies recent attempts to restructure maritime security sectors through capacity building It innovates both theoretically and empirically It proposes a new framework for understanding maritime capacity building drawing on work in peacebuilding and security sector reform The framework is then applied across empirical case studies from the Western Indian Ocean WIO region written by scholars from the Global South The WIO region is a paradigmatic case to study maritime security and capacity building in action Countries in the region face the full gamut of maritime security challenges while their indigenous capacities to deal with these are often weak In consequence the region functions as an engine of innovation for maritime capacity building more widely The lessons and best practices from the region have importance consequences for addressing maritime security across the globe Guns & Roses: Comparative Civil-Military Relations in the Changing Security

Environment Steven Ratuva,Radomir Compel,Sergio Aguilar,2019-01-04 This edited volume provides a critical and comparative discussion of the changing synergy between the military and society in the dramatically transforming global security climate drawing on examples from the Asian Pacific African Middle Eastern European and South American regions The book is interdisciplinary and covers wide ranging issues relating to civil military relations democratization regional security ethnicity peace building and peace keeping civilian oversight internal repression gender regime change and civil society

War of Intervention in Angola Adrien Fontanellaz,José Matos,Tom Cooper,2020-11-23 War of Intervention in Angola Volume 3 covers the air warfare during the II Angolan War fought 1975 1992 through narrating the emergence and operational history of the Angolan Air Force and Air Defence Force FAPA DAA as told by Angolan and Cuban sources Most accounts of this conflict better known in the West as the Border War or the Bush War as named by its South African participants tend to find the operations by the FAPA DAA barely worth mentioning A handful of published histories mention two of its MiG 21s claimed as shot down by Dassault Mirage F 1 interceptors of the South African Air Force SAAF in 1981 and 1982 and at least something about the activities of its MiG 23 interceptors during the battles of the 1987 1988 period On the contrary the story told by Angolan and Cuban sources not only reveals an entirely different image of the air war over Angola of the 1980s indeed it reveals to what degree this conflict was dictated by the availability or the lack of air power and shows that precisely this issue dictated the way that the commanders of the Cuban contingents deployed to the country whether as advisors or as combat troops planned and conducted their operations It is thus little surprising that the first contingent of Cuban troops deployed to Angola during Operation Carlota in late 1975 included a sizeable group of pilots and ground personnel who subsequently helped build up the FAPA DAA from virtually nothing They continued that work over the following 14 years sometimes in cooperation of Soviet advisors and others from East European countries eventually establishing an air force that by 1988 maintained what South African military intelligence and the media subsequently described as the most advanced air defense system in Africa Not only the air defense system in question but also the aircraft serving as its extended arms ultimately managed a unique feat in contemporary military history they enabled an air force equipped with Soviet made aircraft and trained along the Soviet doctrine to establish at least a semblance of aerial superiority over an air force equipped with Western made aircraft and operating under a Western doctrine Based on extensive research with help of Angolan and Cuban sources the War of Intervention in Angola Volume 3 traces the military build up of the FAPA DAA in the period 1975 1992 its capabilities and its intentions Moreover it provides a unique blow by blow account of its combat operations and experiences The volume is illustrated with 100 rare photographs half a dozen maps and 15 color profiles thus providing a unique source of reference on this topic

U.S. Security Cooperation with Africa Robert J. Griffiths, 2016-04-14 As Africa's strategic importance has increased over the past decade and a half United States security cooperation with the continent has expanded The most visible dimension of this increased engagement was the establishment of the U S Military Command for Africa AFRICOM Some critics are skeptical of AFRICOM's purpose and see the militarization of U S Africa policy while others question its effectiveness Recognizing the link between development and security AFRICOM represents a departure from the traditional organization of military commands because of its holistic approach and the involvement of the Department of State as well as other U S government stakeholders Nevertheless AFRICOM's effort to combine security and development faces formidable conceptual and operational challenges in trying to ensure both American and African security interests The human security perspective's emphasis on issues that go beyond traditional state centered security to include protecting individuals from threats of hunger disease crime environmental degradation and political repression as well as focusing on social and economic justice is an important component of security policy At the same time the threat of violent extremism heavily influences U S security cooperation with Africa In this examination of the context of U S African security relations Robert J Griffiths outlines the nature of the African state traces the contours of African conflict surveys the post independence history of U S involvement on the continent and discusses policy organization and implementation and the impact of U S experiences in Iraq and Afghanistan on the U S Africa security relationship Africa's continuing geostrategic significance the influence of China and other emerging markets in the region and America's other global engagements especially in light of U S fiscal realities demonstrate the complexity of U S African security cooperation Reconfiguration of the Global South Eckart Woertz, 2016-10-04 Since the 1980s there has been a steady shift from West to East in the international system economically politically and culturally Emerging markets in Asia have moved up the value chain of industrial production processes while the share of Western industrialized countries in global gross domestic product has declined Countries such as China and India are asserting themselves in security matters and seeking new avenues for investment flows and development cooperation China's expected shift from export led growth to domestic consumption might further change patterns of trade and capital flows and it is an open debate whether the growth dynamics of India might outstrip those of China While the rise of China and other Asian powers has been studied extensively much less work has been done on how Africa and Latin America position themselves in this process What will the role be of Africa and Latin America in the Asian Century and associated reconfigurations of global value chains Will these regions be able to assert themselves and find a voice of their own Will they manage to develop industries of their own and diversify trade relations Will they launch new ways of regional south south cooperation What is the role of migrant communities and cultural exchange Do Western and Asian approaches to these regions differ Washington vs Beijing consensus This book brings together renowned academics from Africa Latin America Europe and the USA who bring refreshing perspectives on an under researched topic ranging from a conceptualization of the issue within new theoretical approaches to unique case studies based on field work
