

World War I Total War DBQ

Prompt: Evaluate the extent to which World War I was a total war.

Document 1

Source: German Foreign Minister Arthur Zimmermann, "The Zimmermann Telegram", 1917

We intend to begin on the first of February unrestricted submarine warfare. We shall endeavor in spite of this to keep the United States of America neutral. In the event of this not succeeding, we make Mexico a proposal of alliance on the following basis: make war together, make peace together, generous financial support and an understanding on our part that Mexico is to reconquer the lost territory in Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona. The settlement in detail is left to you. You will inform the President of the above most secretly as soon as the outbreak of war with the United States of America is certain and add the suggestion that he should, on his own initiative, invite Japan to immediate adherence and at the same time mediate between Japan and ourselves. Please call the President's attention to the fact that the ruthless employment of our submarines now offers the prospect of compelling England in a few months to make peace.

Source: David Lloyd George, Speech by the British Prime Minister on the existential threat of the Central Powers, 1918

We are fighting Germany, Austria, and Turkey. They are not merely seeking to overthrow governments or dynasties; they are seeking to extinguish the existence of the British Empire and to destroy our very nationhood. This is not just a conflict of armies but a struggle for the survival of our entire way of life.
