Norms, Logics and Information Systems Paul McNamara, Henry Prakken, 1999 This book presents research in an interdisciplinary field resulting from the vigorous and fruitful cross pollination between traditional deontic logic and computer science AI researchers have used deontic logic as one of the tools in modelling legal reasoning Computer scientists have discovered that computer systems including their interaction with other computer systems and with human agents can often be productively modelled as norm governed So for example deontic logic has been applied by computer scientists for specifying bureaucratic systems access and security policies and software design or integrity constraints and for modelling fault tolerance In turn computer scientists and AI researchers have also discovered and made it clear to the rest of us that various formal tools e.g. nonmonotonic temporal and dynamic logics developed in computer science and artificial intelligence have interesting applications to traditional issues in deontic logic This volume presents some of the best work done in this area with the selection at once reflecting the general interdisciplinary and international character that this area of research has taken on as well as reflecting the more specific recent inter disciplinary developments between traditional deontic logic and computer science Ascent Tzachi Zamir,2018 At the base camp imagining First climb wisdom First crossroad knowledge Second climb meaningful action Second crossroad purchase Third climb meaningless action Third crossroad place Fourth climb receiving Fourth crossroad needs Fifth climb gratitude Fifth crossroad sin At the summit
