Ghauri, 2004-04-30 The terrorist attacks of September 11 2001 ushered in an age of anxiety along with the new century an anxiety that has affected the international business climate in a variety of subtle and not so subtle ways For one the cost of doing business internationally has increased for global firms and host countries alike For another understanding shifting geopolitical conditions in the developing world has become more crucial than ever to grasp if the world's multinationals whether of American British European or Japanese origin are to take the best advantage of new market opportunities These market opportunities are well within the experience range and grasp of the multinational consumer product and industrial firms as well as service enterprises But the same corporate methodologies that were employed in decades past are unlikely to be sufficient for the age of anxiety that is upon us The contributions assembled here offer the benefits of the collective wisdom of mature scholars with decades of consulting experience along with fresh ideas and new research hypotheses

International Business, Multi-Nationals, and the Nationality of the Company Boris Gehlen, Christian Marx, Alfred Reckendrees, 2023-12-11 This book discusses challenges that arise for multinational companies from not having a single nationality and being exposed to a variety of simultaneous country specific legally and culturally constructed nationalities at home and abroad Brexit America First campaigns Russia's war against Ukraine or the ever tenuous relationship between China and the US have led to raising concerns about foreign direct investments Multinational companies are pressured to withdraw from countries and reorganise global value chains The long held confidence that nationality does not matter for multinational companies in the globalised economy has dwindled Today companies doing business abroad are exposed to implications of their nationality because governments and customers react upon the nationality of a firm or a product as they did in the 20th century The chapters in this book address many international business domains covering political risk liability of foreignness cultural distance headquarters change and tax planning They use different methodological approaches to analyse European and US based MNEs in Europe Africa and South East Asia from 1900 to 1980 The book argues that nationality is not a ghost from the past in international business it is a topic that requires substantial consideration The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Business History
