In an unfortunate turn of the world's development, 2020 started with a global pandemic that has affected more than 170 countries worldwide. COVID-19 has pushed most countries to enforce government measures that have severely constrained business and industrial activities, which will have dire impact on the global economy growth. We expect that this condition will put additional pressure on the already subdued coal market and therefore we need to continue our cost control measures, and maintain a solid balance sheet to protect us in this challenging time and to ensure that we can ride out the downturn.

Review of work plan and performance

We are cognizant of the cyclical nature of the coal market and intend our full support to the Board at DOWSIR for their strategies to maintain operational excellence and strong cost discipline across the Company's safe, efficient, and effective operations. We encourage them to continue pursuing more growth opportunities between us below AE has developed and applied its right business model, which enables the company to generate solid and stable revenue contributions from the coal and business pillars to further the stability of cash. This business model is proven to be resilient and is a key factor to the company's value creation endeavors. With volume growth and cost control within the factors that enabled AE to deliver on its 2019 operational and financial guidance, AE managed to maintain solid profitability on the back of the resiliency of this integrated business model while dealing with the less favorable coal market condition.

COVID-19 telah memaksa sebagian besar negara untuk membatasi semua aktivitas komersial yang disebabkan adanya larangan dan pembatasan aktivitas yang akan berdampak langsung terhadap perkembangan ekonomi global. Kami memperkirakan bahwa kondisi ini akan menambah tekanan terhadap pasar batu bara yang sudah sudah tertekan dan karena kami harus mempertahankan biaya pengoperasian kami dan menjaga keuangan kami kuat kami perlu mempertahankan dan fokus yang kuat untuk memastikan perusahaan yang sedang bertahan.
