Deanship in the Global South Oliver J.J. Seale, 2021-02-08 The university today is a postmodern neo liberal competitive boundary less knowledge conglomerate a far cry from its historical traditional classical and collegial roots There is a body of literature on deanship that points to its evolving nature in the contemporary academe characterised by complexity and change Balancing academic demands simultaneously with the requirements for effective performance leadership and management lies at the heart of this very challenging bridging role nowadays Deans are generally former academics emerging from a traditional collegial space and often catapulted into the relatively unknown domain of executive management with its related problems Deans nowadays are required to be more than collegial intellectual leaders They are also meant to be fiscal and human resource experts fundraisers politicians and diplomats Deanship in the Global South Bridging Troubled Waters is about the deans lived reality as they try to balance the demands of both the academe from which they emerge and the administration to whom they now need to account Their lack of preparation and inadequate support points to the need for a more strategic integrated approach to leadership development within their critical bridging roles between the academe and administration Social Constructions of Water Quality in South Africa Suvania Naidoo, 2022-05-04 This book details how the water quality of the Blesbokspruit River in Gauteng South Africa was socially constructed by stakeholders and key individuals in the context of acid mine drainage AMD and its treatment Social constructionism is used as the framing for this research to explain how water is intrinsically social Findings presented here show that stakeholders are aware that the changes in the physicality of the Blesbokspruit resulted from human interventions and varied uses of the water over the years Such knowledge among factors such as the historical context of mining current coal mining flows and volumes of water technology used and processes followed information and communication and vested interests influence social constructions of the water quality What counts as the truth about water varies depending on the individual s perspective their purpose and their individual interests Further how one defines water quality influences what treatment processes are preferred in order to improve water quality The book explains why for example a treatment process meant to improve water quality gained a bad reputation by the public because of the South African government s silo approach The book explains how these social constructions are entrenched in power relations between stakeholders regarding AMD treatment and illustrates how power was used to influence decisions to improve the water quality of the Blesbokspruit The case presented in this book offers insights and recommendations for policymakers working in water governance including means to influence social constructions of water quality and ways to clarify roles and responsibilities in pursuit of improved cooperative government Minerals Yearbook ,2011 Trans-jurisdictional Water Law and Governance Janice Gray, Cameron Holley, Rosemary Rayfuse, 2016-06-23 Governance of global water resources presents one of the most confounding challenges in contemporary natural resource governance With considerable government citizen and financial donor attention devoted to a range of international transnational and domestic laws and policies aimed at protecting managing and sustainably using fresh and coastal marine water resources this book proposes that sustainable water outcomes require a trans jurisdictional approach to water governance Focusing on the concept of trans jurisdictional water governance the book diagnoses barriers and identifies pathways to coherent and coordinated institutional arrangements between and across different bodies of laws at local national regional and international levels It includes case studies from the European Union Australia New Zealand South Africa the United States and Southeast Asia Leading specialists offer insights into the pretence and the promise of trans jurisdictional water governance and provide readers including students practitioners policy makers and academics with a basis for better analysing articulating and synthesising standards of good trans jurisdictional water governance both in theory and in practice Uranium Anthony Burke, 2017-07-03 Uranium the most atomically unstable natural element on earth has a unique place in the global geopolitics of resources It provides energy to millions of people and its isotopes are used to power spacecraft and in nuclear medicine But it is also at the heart of many of the planet s most deadly threats including nuclear devastation and radioactive waste Its mining has caused bitter conflict with indigenous peoples and its testing in nuclear weapons has left a toxic legacy Yet the nonproliferation regime which aims to phase out nuclear weapons and manage the risks of nuclear energy is at risk of unravelling In this book Anthony Burke explores the geopolitical intrigue around uranium and the dilemmas of justice and security to which its development has given rise The twenty first century he cautions will be a time of reckoning and new reserves of political will must be found to manage the impact of this extraordinary mineral Only by cooperating to achieve multilateral disarmament and greater international control over nuclear power can we ward off nuclear catastrophe and harness the potential of nuclear energy to help address rather than create some of the world s most pressing problems
