SpringBoard English Language Arts, 2017 Activity Theory and Collaborative Intervention in Education Katsuhiro Yamazumi, 2021-02-22. By applying cultural historical activity theory and expansive learning theory to educational research, this volume illuminates new forms of educational activities as collaborative interventions in schools and communities where learners and practitioners generate expansive learning so that they can collectively transform their activities and expand their agency for themselves. It covers four cases of activity theoretical formative intervention studies conducted in Japan which are related to fostering children's expansive learning in classroom lessons, teachers as collaborative change agents in redesigning schools, expanding the school activity from below, and emerging knotworking agency in community-based disaster prevention learning. This book employs activity theory as a general theoretical framework of human learning and development to connect focal data from empirical and interventional studies on real human learning in specific educational settings in Japan. In this way, the book illustrates how the general theoretical framework could be used to understand a specific socio-cultural milieu that is the Japanese context. It also shows the universal relevance of the Japanese context of educational activity on broader international research analyzing concrete empirical data from specific settings in Japan. In conclusion, this book creates new understanding and develops a cohesive framework of the agentic and hybrid nature of educational activities as collaborative interventions in the expansion of learning.

Teaching Mathematics in Grades 6 - 12 Randall E. Groth, 2012-08-10. A journey into the vibrant and intriguing world of mathematics education. Teaching Mathematics in Grades 6-12 explores how research in mathematics education can inform teaching practice in grades 6-12. The author shows secondary mathematics teachers the value of being a researcher in the classroom by constantly experimenting with methods for developing students' mathematical thinking and then connecting this research to practices that enhance students' understanding of the material. The chapters in Part I introduce secondary teachers to the field of mathematics education with cross-cutting issues that apply to teaching and learning in all mathematics content areas. The chapters in Part II are devoted to specific mathematics content strands and describe how students think about mathematical concepts. The goal of the text is to have secondary math teachers gain a deeper understanding of the types of mathematical knowledge their students bring to grade 6-12 classrooms and how students' thinking may develop in response to different teaching strategies.
