New Drivers of Division Ya Ping Wang, Keith Kintrea, David Everatt, Debolina Kundu, 2025-09-02 This open access book provides recent trends of urbanization and inequality in Africa and Asia It addresses the inequality challenges of urbanization and large scale rural to urban migration It answers questions around socio economic and spatial inequalities and how serious those are in cities in Africa and Asia under 21st century urbanization Chapters demonstrate how the old neighborhood division in cities based on race ethnicity religion apartheid tribes caste and migrant are replaced by social class through sorting in the housing market The analyses go beyond the normal income inequality consideration and take a broader perspective on inequality by considering these issues at the neighborhood level to reveal the new spatial divisions in cities As such it is essential reading for academics and students in urban studies sociology geography planning and policymakers working on urban development around the world Religion, Heritage and the Sustainable City Yamini Narayanan, 2014-10-10 The speed and scale of urbanisation in India is unprecedented almost anywhere in the world and has tremendous global implications The religious influence on the urban experience has resonances for all aspects of urban sustainability in India and yet it remains a blind spot while articulating sustainable urban policy This book explores the historical and on going influence of religion on urban planning design space utilisation urban identities and communities It argues that the conceptual and empirical approaches to planning sustainable cities in India need to be developed out of analytical concepts that define local sense of place and identity Examining how Hindu religious heritage beliefs and religiously influenced planning practices have impacted on sustainable urbanisation development in Jaipur and Indian cities in general the book identifies the challenges and opportunities that ritualistic and belief resources pose for sustainability It focuses on three key aspects spatial segregation and ghettoisation gender inclusive urban development and the nexus between religion nature and urban development This cutting edge book is one of the first case studies linking Hindu religion heritage urban development women and the environment in a way that responds to the realities of Indian cities It opens up discussion on the nexus of religion and development drawing out insightful policy implications for the sustainable urban planning of many cities in India and elsewhere in South Asia and the developing world Designing Sustainable Cities in the Developing World Georgia Butina Watson, 2016-04-22 Can conservation of the built heritage be reconciled with the speed of urban change in cities of the developing world What are the tools of sustainable design and how can communities participate in the design of the environments in which they live and work These are some of the questions explored within this innovative and richly illustrated book A wealth of examples drawn from Mexico Brazil Indonesia Egypt Saudi Arabia India and Myanmar demonstrate how rapid physical and social change has swept away historic urban quarters and the cultural heritage they represent Written in an accessible style the rich mix of concepts research methods analysis and practice based tools is designed for academics and professionals alike Leading academics Zetter and Watson have produced a fascinating book that is amongst the first to explore the concept of urban sustainability within the context of urban design in the developing world Transport Planning for Third World Cities (Routledge Revivals) Harry T. Dimitriou, 2013-06-26 Cities within the developing world experience a form of urban development which is different to those in more industrialised countries Rates of growth are usually much more dramatic housing and transport are often provided informally and institutional support for urban management is also much weaker The crux of this book first published in 1990 lies in the idea that urban transport planning cannot be viewed in isolation from this wider development context Making special reference to a number of countries including Brazil India and Indonesia chapters discuss problems of urban transport planning deficiencies in the theory and practice of conventional transport planning and the emerging alternatives in the countries under examination This work addresses problems that are still of great concern to urban policy planners professionals and academics as well as students from the fields of development studies urban geography and planning architecture and civil engineering

The Challenge of Slums United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2012-05-23

The Challenge of Slums presents the first global assessment of slums emphasizing their problems and prospects Using a newly formulated operational definition of slums it presents estimates of the number of urban slum dwellers and examines the factors at all level from local to global that underlie the formation of slums as well as their social spatial and economic characteristics and dynamics It goes on to evaluate the principal policy responses to the slum challenge of the last few decades From this assessment the immensity of the challenges that slums pose is clear Almost 1 billion people live in slums the majority in the developing world where over 40 per cent of the urban population are slum dwellers The number is growing and will continue to increase unless there is serious and concerted action by municipal authorities governments civil society and the international community This report points the way forward and identifies the most promising approaches to achieving the United Nations Millennium Declaration targets for improving the lives of slum dwellers by scaling up participatory slum upgrading and poverty reduction programmes The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date assessment of conditions and trends in the world s cities Written in clear language and supported by informative graphics case studies and extensive statistical data it will be an essential tool and reference for researchers academics planners public authorities and civil society organizations around the world

Environment and the City Joe Ravetz, Clive George, Joe Howe, 2004-07-15 For the first time at the beginning of the twenty first century urban dwellers outnumber rural residents and this trend is set to continue Consequently one of the most pressing issues of our time is how to square the social and economic development of cities with their environmental limits and those of the wider environment The theme of the environment and city is topical at every level from the politics of global trade to local community networks Environment and the City looks at the evolution of cities in the developed and the developing world and the implications for resource consumption and environmental impacts It takes a cross cutting approach with new thinking on multiple geographies the configuration of networks exclusion consumption risk and ecological footprint Urban environmental themes and their related social economic and political agendas are outlined In turn the environmental impacts and environmental agendas relating to key sectors of the urban economy are discussed The global context to such issues is then explored before the practical tools and methods of urban environmental management are investigated The theme of the sustainable city emerges from this not so much as a standard menu but as a learning process between all sections of society This book a valuable resource provides a concise accessible route map for all students interested in the environmental issues emanating from our urban society Written to aid student understanding the easily navigable text features boxed practical examples discussion points signposts to reading and websites and a glossary
