American Haiku Toru Kiuchi, 2017-11-30 American Haiku New Readings explores the history and development of haiku by American writers examining individual writers. In the late nineteenth century Japanese poetry influenced through translation the French Symbolist poets from whom British and American Imagist poets Amy Lowell, Ezra Pound, T. E. Hulme and John Gould Fletcher received stimulus. Since the first English language hokku/haiku written by Yone Noguchi in 1903, one of the Imagist poet Ezra Pound's well-known haiku-like poem "In A Station of the Metro" published in 1913 is most influential on other Imagist and later American haiku poets. Since the end of World War II, many Americans and Canadians tried their hands at writing haiku. Among them, Richard Wright wrote over four thousand haiku in the final eighteen months of his life in exile in France. His Haiku: This Other World, ed. Yoshinobu Hakutani and Robert L. Tener, 1998, is a posthumous collection of 817 haiku. Wright himself had selected Jack Kerouac, a well-known American novelist like Richard Wright, also wrote numerous haiku. Kerouac's Book of Haikus, ed. Regina Weinreich, Penguin, 2003, collects 667 haiku. In recent decades, many other American writers have written haiku: Lenard Moore, Sonia Sanchez, James A. Emanuel, Burnell Lippy, and Cid Corman. Sonia Sanchez has two collections of haiku: Like the Singing Coming off the Drums (Boston: Beacon Press, 1998) and Morning Haiku (Boston: Beacon Press, 2010). James A. Emanuel's Jazz from the Haiku King (Broadside Press, 1999) is also a unique collection of haiku. Lenard Moore, author of his haiku collections The Open Eye (1985), has been writing and publishing haiku for over 20 years and became the first African American to be elected as President of the Haiku Society of America. Burnell Lippy's haiku appears in the major American haiku journals Where the River Goes, The Nature Tradition in English Language Haiku (2013). Cid Corman is well-known not only as a haiku poet but a translator of Japanese ancient and modern haiku poets. Santoka's Walking into the Wind (Cadmus Editions, 1994).

American Haiku Roger Madon, 2012-01-31 This book is a transliteration of audio presentations which were prepared for radio and were heard by millions of listeners throughout the country.

Discourse of Twitter and Social Media Michele Zappavigna, 2012-02-23 Social media such as microblogging services and social networking sites are changing the way people interact online and search for information and opinions. This book investigates linguistic patterns in electronic discourse, looking at online evaluative language, Internet slang, memes, and ambient affiliation using a large Twitter corpus over 100 million tweets alongside specialized case studies. The author argues that we are currently witnessing a cultural movement from online conversation to what can be termed searchable talk: online talk where people affiliate by making their discourse findable, for example via metadata such as Twitter hashtags, by others holding similar interests. This cutting-edge text will be of interest to all scholars and students dealing with electronically mediated discourse.

Storytelling Christian Salmon, 2017-01-31 Politics is no longer the art of the possible but of the fictive. Its aim is not to change the world as it exists but to affect the way that it is perceived. In Storytelling Christian Salmon looks at the twenty first century hijacking of creative imagination, anatomizing the timeless human desire for narrative form and how this desire is abused by the marketing mechanisms that bolster politicians and their products. Luxury brands trade on embellished histories, managers tell stories to motivate employees, soldiers in Iraq train on Hollywood conceived computer games and spin doctors construct political lives as if they were a folk epic. This storytelling machine is masterfully unveiled by Salmon and is shown to be more effective and insidious as a means of oppression than anything dreamed up by Orwell.

Minimalism and Affect in American Literature, 1970-2020 Oliver Haslam, 2024-09-05 Theorizes the development of a minimalist mode in American fiction since 1970, frequently seen to interrogate US postmodernity. Minimalism and Affect in American Literature 1970-2020 responds to existing studies of literary minimalism by pursuing three original and interrelated objectives. It provides a more inclusive and precise definition of minimalism that enables further inquiry into the mode. It also exposes the presence of minimalism beyond critical demarcations that attempt to limit the aesthetic to a particular school, medium, movement, form or decade. Finally, it argues that writers of American literary minimalism are uniquely privileged in their ability to formalize precarity and threatening cultural currents into the fragile construct that is ordinary life. Building upon theories of affect and the everyday, Minimalism and Affect in American Literature 1970-2020 analyses minimalist aesthetics within the works of canonical minimalists alongside writers more frequently associated with other movements. Through readings of Ernest Hemingway, Joan Didion, Raymond Carver, Paul Auster and Don DeLillo among others and cultural phenomena ranging from sedation to telephony, this book exposes the persistence and political importance of minimalism within American literature from the 20th century into the 21st. The Publishers Weekly, 2010

The Green Movement in Iran Hamid Dabashi, 2017-09-08 The Green Movement in Iran contains Hamid Dabashi's most important writings on the Iran's June 2009 election, its tumultuous aftermath and the characteristics and aspirations of the emerging Green Movement These analyses range from close analysis of the nature of the events to the Green Movement s historical background and future political consequences The writings have been modified and updated for book publication The volume presents Dabashi s account of the events since June 12 2009 the Election Day itself and his recap of highlights of the build up period to the mass protests He provides insightful background for events on the ground dealing with debates about the credibility of the election He then discusses political continuity in Iran as well as the characteristics of the Green Movement Dabashi argues that the reaction of the custodians of the Islamic Republic to the charge of the election being a fraud only affirms its lost legitimacy and casts the system as being neither Islamic nor a republic Dabashi also comments on US politics and its relations to Iran and the Green Movement pointing out shortcomings in American media culture The role of the Iranian opposition in the Green Movement and American political policies the political and economic consequence of the U S sanctions against Iran and the way these may be interpreted by Iranian society are all viewed from an enlightening perspective Dabashi argues that the Iranian regime suffering deeply from legitimacy issues makes use of its bureaucratic economic and political leverage to stage a show of support and project division among the people
