Tatian's Diatessaron James W. Barker, 2021-10-28 In the late second century Tatian the Assyrian constructed a new Gospel by intricately harmonizing Matthew Mark Luke and John Tatian's work became known as the Diatessaron since it was derived out of the four eventually canonical Gospels Though it circulated widely for centuries the Diatessaron disappeared in antiquity Nevertheless numerous ancient and medieval harmonies survive in various languages Some texts are altogether independent of the Diatessaron while others are definitely related Yet even Tatian's known descendants differ in large and small ways so attempts at reconstruction have proven confounding In this book James W Barker forges a new path in Diatessaron studies Covering the widest array of manuscript evidence to date Tatian's Diatessaron reconstructs the compositional and editorial practices by which Tatian wrote his Gospel By sorting every extant witnesses according to its narrative sequence the macrostructure of Tatian's Gospel becomes clear Despite many shared agreements there remain significant divergences between eastern and western witnesses This book argues that the eastern ones preserve Tatian's order whereas the western texts descend from a fourth century recension of the Diatessaron Victor of Capua and his scribe used the recension to produce the Latin Codex Fuldensis in the sixth century More controversially Barker offers new evidence that late medieval texts such as the Middle Dutch Stuttgart harmony independently preserve traces of the western recension This study uncovers the composition and reception history behind one of early Christianity's most elusive texts

Jewish Literacy in Roman Palestine Catherine Hezser, 2001 Since Judaism has always been seen as the quintessential religion of the book a high literacy rate amongst ancient Jews has usually been taken for granted Catherine Hezser presents the first critical analysis of the various aspects of ancient Jewish literacy on the basis of all of the literary epigraphic and papyrological material published so far Thereby she takes into consideration the analogies in Graeco Roman culture and models and theories developed in the social sciences Rather than trying to determine the exact literacy rate amongst ancient Jews she examines the various types social contexts and functions of writing and the relationship between writing and oral forms of discourse Following recent social anthropological approaches to literacy the guiding question is who used what type of writing for which purpose First Catherine Hezser examines the conditions which would enable or prevent the spread of literacy such as education and schools the availability and costs of writing materials religious interest in writing and books the existence of archives and libraries and the question of multilingualism Afterwards she looks at the different types of writing such as letters documents miscellaneous notes inscriptions and graffiti and literary and magical texts until she finally draws conclusions about the ways in which the various sectors of the populace were able to participate in a literate society

Kruger, 2005-08-01 This volume is the first complete analysis of the apocryphal gospel fragment P Oxy 840 since its initial discovery nearly a century ago The fragment recounts a dispute over ritual purity between Jesus and a Pharisaic chief priest in the temple After an examination of prior research this work explores the various palaeographical and historical questions raised by this apocryphal story and also offers a new Greek edition and English translation In particular P Oxy 840 s controversial descriptions of ritual purity practices in Herod s temple are evaluated in light of what is known of first century Judaism After comparing the text with similar passages in the canonical gospels the origins of this non canonical story are traced to second century Jewish Christian groups that shared its theological and polemical thrust
