

The Xenta OP-U8 is UL Listed (UL864) for application in a TAC Smoke Control System. This data sheet provides information, instructions and restrictions pertaining to the proper application of this specific product in a smoke control system. This data sheet takes precedence over other general product installation and application information for the Xenta OP and must be used in conjunction with the "Xenta - Smoke Control Systems Manual" (0-004-7897-1). The manual provides a system level view of the smoke control application and provides additional information regarding the various products that can be interconnected to form a system.

General Application

The Xenta OP is a small operator panel designed to be used together with TAC Xenta 100, 200, 300, 401 and 901 units. The Operator Panel gives the user access to equipment status displays, control parameters and alarm information in the local system based upon the controller programming and password privileges defined for the OP display presentation.

The TAC Xenta OP Operator panel has an LCD display with 4 x 20 characters and six push buttons. A modular socket or four screw terminals, located on the rear of the unit, are used for communications and to supply power from the Xenta controller. There is also a potentiometer on the rear to adjust the contrast of the display. The OP provide a back lighted LCD display controlled from the OP Service menu.

The operator panel is controlled from a master (TAC Xenta controller). When you start using the operator panel, it will send a message to the master telling it what button was pushed. The master contains the dialogue messages and will direct the operator panel what to show on the display. Thus the operator panel will act as a dumb terminal.

Xenta 100 Connection

Normally the Xenta OP is connected to the modular jack on the lower side of the Wall Module wired to the Xenta 100 controller. The Xenta OP will get 24VAC power supply from the TAC Xenta 100 unit (parallel load on the 24VAC supply). The maximum length for cable between OP and controller is 10m.

Xenta 200, 300, 401 Connection

When connecting the operator panel there are two alternatives:

- 1) Use the modular socket on the front of the TAC Xenta 200, 300 or 401 controller and the corresponding socket on the back of the operator panel. This requires a special cable.
- 2) Use the screw terminals on the back of the operator panel, labeled 1-4.

OP Term.	Function	Xenta Terminal
1	LON	C1
2	LON	C2
3	24VAC	G
4	Ground	G0

The maximum length for cable between OP and controller is 10m.
