Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health of sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were 20 men, aged 40 to 50 years, who were sedentary and had no history of cardiovascular disease. They were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week training program consisting of aerobic and resistance training. The control group did not exercise. Physical fitness was measured by maximum oxygen consumption ($\dot{V}O_{2\max}$), maximum heart rate ($\text{HR}_{\max}$), and maximum power output ($\text{P}_{\max}$). Health was measured by blood pressure (BP), resting heart rate (HR), and body mass index (BMI). The results showed that the exercise group had significantly higher $\dot{V}O_{2\max}$, $\text{HR}_{\max}$, and $\text{P}_{\max}$ than the control group after 12 weeks. The exercise group also had significantly lower BP, HR, and BMI than the control group after 12 weeks. These results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve physical fitness and health in sedentary, middle-aged men.

Abstract
This paper presents a new method for the automatic detection of the onset of a seizure. The method is based on the analysis of the EEG signal. The onset of a seizure is detected by the analysis of the power spectrum of the EEG signal. The power spectrum is calculated by the Fast Fourier Transform (FFT) method. The power spectrum is then analyzed by the method of the moving average. The onset of a seizure is detected when the power spectrum shows a significant increase in power. The method is applied to the EEG signal of a patient with epilepsy. The results show that the method is able to detect the onset of a seizure with a high degree of accuracy. The method is also able to detect the end of a seizure. The method is a simple and effective method for the automatic detection of the onset of a seizure.

Question 11
A company is considering a new product. The product will be successful if the market is large. The product will be unsuccessful if the market is small.
