Data, New Technologies, and Global Imbalances Georges Kotrotsios, 2021-03-03 We are familiar with the idea that technology is neutral and that its impact depends only on how it is used This traditional view has however become untenable Because of its nature and its complex interplay with industry the economy and society technology is no longer neutral This change is being driven by the pervasiveness of data which today are generated everywhere at an unprecedented pace because several technologies are currently reaching maturity Data shape the world around us in a trend that is commonly referred to as digitalization This trend is apparent in every aspect of our lives ranging from our personal environment and health to transportation energy generation and management and industry Digitalization itself generates value enabling the creation of new products and services It also fosters technological and business innovation in other fields including the manufacturing industry and acts as a lever with which to promote growth Digitalization however also creates imbalances and this happens due to its very nature Such imbalances appear between different parts of the globe and within individual geographical spaces This book explores the multiplicity of mechanisms associated with the growing role that technology and data are playing in the creation of imbalances and goes on to identify certain paths that lead toward mitigation Should we make data publicly accessible and in a transparent way How can policymakers empower governments to address global and local imbalances particularly those generated by technology and data Do we need a global data governance structure that like the World Trade Organization for commerce regulates data use and access

Human-Technology Interaction Carsten Röcker, Sebastian Büttner, 2022-12-13 Digitalization and automation are leading to fundamental changes in the industrial landscape In the German speaking countries this development is often summarized under the term Industry 4 0 Simultaneously interaction technologies have made huge developments in the last decades The use of mobile devices and touch screens is ubiquitous augmented and virtual reality technologies have made their way into the market and new interaction concepts have become established While new interaction technologies offer new possibilities for organizing or executing work in the context of Industry 4 0 the transformation of industrial processes also creates a need for new work practices This book sheds light on the interplay of Industry 4 0 and new interaction technologies It presents selected research articles on the topic of Human Technology Interaction in the context of Industry 4 0 Researchers from various disciplines present the current state of research with regard to future interactions with production environments to develop a common vision of how to design future interactions in the industrial domain In this context various topics are covered a detailed overview on assistive systems for supporting manual work is given including technological and design aspects as well as implementation strategies Industrial use cases for extended reality XR technologies such as augmented and virtual reality AR and VR are presented also covering aspects of how to author content in XR environments The role of new work practices is examined for example by presenting concepts of gamification and human machine teamwork for supporting well being Finally topics of trust and technology acceptance are discussed in the context of Industry 4 0 Given this broad perspective a vision is sketched of how to design future human technology interactions in a way that realizes their full technical and human potential
