

Addiction Discussion Questions

1

Oftentimes, a person's relationship with drugs and alcohol will change over time. For example, drugs might start out as a fun "every now-and-then" activity, but eventually become an everyday habit. How has your relationship with drugs changed from the time that you first used to now? Do you still use for the same reasons, or have those reasons changed?

2

Some people are able to function adequately, and complete their responsibilities such as work or school, despite having an addiction. However, for most of these people, functioning would be even better without drugs. How did your functioning change at work or school after you started using? Even if you're able to keep up with your responsibilities while you use, how do you think sobriety would change things?

3

The rituals and activities that surround drug use can be difficult to give up. For example, a smoker might enjoy the ritual of having a cigarette—not just the nicotine. Similarly, a drinker might have more trouble saying goodbye to their drinking buddies than to alcohol itself. What are some rituals or activities that you associate with drug use, and how do you feel about giving them up? Do you think you could achieve sobriety without changing your lifestyle?

4

Many people use drugs as a crutch to help them handle difficult emotions such as anger, depression, and anxiety. These emotions are challenging for everyone, and it can be hard to resist the temptation of an easy escape. What choices does a person have, other than drug use, when they are confronted with these painful emotions? What emotions might lead you to using drugs or alcohol?

5

Some people say that addiction is a disease, and others believe it's a choice. What do you think, and why? How do you believe counseling, support groups, or other treatments could help a person who struggles with addiction?

6

Drugs and alcohol affect your judgment, thoughts, feelings, and more. Such changes might lead you to make decisions that you wouldn't make while sober. Have you done things under the influence of drugs that you wouldn't have done while sober? Have you noticed any behavior patterns that occur only when you're intoxicated?

The Oxford Handbook of Adolescent Substance Abuse Robert A. Zucker, Sandra A. Brown, 2019-08-01 Adolescent substance abuse is the nation's 1 public health problem. It originates out of a developmental era where experimentation with the world is increasingly taking place and where major changes in physical self and social relationships are taking place. These changes cannot be understood by any one discipline nor can they be described by focusing only on the behavioral and social problems of this age period, the characteristics of normal development or the pharmacology and addictive potential of specific drugs. They require knowledge of the brain's systems of reward and control, genetics, psychopharmacology, personality, child development, psychopathology, family dynamics, peer group relationships, culture, social policy, and more. Drawing on the expertise of the leading researchers in this field, this Handbook provides the most comprehensive summarization of current knowledge about adolescent substance abuse. The Handbook is organized into eight sections covering the literature on the developmental context of this life period, the epidemiology of adolescent use and abuse, similarities and differences in use, addictive potential and consequences of use for different drugs, etiology and course as characterized at different levels of mechanistic analysis ranging from the genetic and neural to the behavioural and social. Two sections cover the clinical ramifications of abuse and prevention and intervention strategies to most effectively deal with these problems. The Handbook's last section addresses the role of social policy in framing the problem in addressing it and explores its potential role in alleviating it.

Pattern Recognition. ICPR International Workshops and Challenges Alberto Del Bimbo, Rita Cucchiara, Stan Sclaroff, Giovanni Maria Farinella, Tao Mei, Marco Bertini, Hugo Jair Escalante, Roberto Vezzani, 2021-02-22 This 8 volumes set constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 25th International Conference on Pattern Recognition Workshops ICPR 2020 held virtually in Milan, Italy and rescheduled to January 10-11, 2021 due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The 416 full papers presented in these 8 volumes were carefully reviewed and selected from about 700 submissions. The 46 workshops cover a wide range of areas including machine learning, pattern analysis, healthcare, human behavior, environment, surveillance, forensics and biometrics, robotics and egovision, cultural heritage and document analysis, retrieval and women at ICPR2020.

Treatment Strategies for Substance Abuse and Process Addictions Robert L. Smith, 2015-03-05 This distinctive and timely text examines the most prevalent substance and process addictions and focuses on current research and evidence-based treatment strategies. Major substance addictions discussed include alcohol, tobacco, marijuana, methamphetamines, and prescription drugs. Complete chapters are also devoted to the most frequently cited process addictions, making this text unique. Behavioral addictions covered in this text include pathological gambling, sex disorders, disordered eating, work, exercise, shopping, and Internet gaming. Each chapter contains a listing of student learning outcomes, a case study with reflective questions, techniques for assessment and diagnosis, inpatient and outpatient treatment approaches, and resources for further study. With its emphasis on treatment strategies, this text can be used by practitioners.
