Progress on the proportion of domestic and industrial wastewater flows safely treated -

Mid-term status of SDG Indicator 6.3.1 and acceleration needs, with a special focus on climate change, wastewater reuse and health

World Health Organization, United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2024-11-22 This report presents the global status on wastewater treatment and acceleration needs to achieve target 6.3 by 2030 based on the latest data on indicator 6.3.1 total wastewater flows as well as flows from industrial sources and households Over the 107 countries reporting some wastewater statistics for 2022 representing 73 per cent of the world's population in the present report the proportion of total wastewater receiving some level of treatment 76 per cent could only be calculated for 73 countries representing 42 per cent of the global population whereas the proportion of total wastewater safely i.e. at least secondary treatment treated 60 per cent could only be calculated for 42 countries representing 12 per cent of the population. These data are insufficient to establish global statistics. Reporting on industrial wastewater treatment remains limited with data only reported from 22 countries representing 8 per cent of the global population. In these countries only 38 per cent of industrial wastewater was reported as treated and only 27 per cent was safely treated. Globally in 2022 42% of household domestic wastewater was not safely treated before discharge leading to an estimated 113 billion m³ of household wastewater being released to the environment with inadequate or no treatment. Much of the fraction of household wastewater that was not safely treated was attributable to households lacking adequate blackwater and greywater collection systems such as sewer connections or septic tanks 45 per cent. Yearbook of the United Nations, Volume 39 (1985) United Nations, 2023-08-28

Report to Federal Statistical Agencies United States. Office of Management and Budget. Statistical Policy Division, 1950 Austrian Information, 1955 A United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights Roger Stenson Clark, 2013-12-01 prospects of the High Commissioner proposal with careful scholarship and shrewd judgment. Mr Clark wrote the first draft of this book under my supervision for the degree of Doctor of the Science of Law at Columbia Law School before returning to take up his career as a law teacher in his native New Zealand. I am delighted that his work in this improved and updated version is now being published. It fills a real need since it is the first book on this important subject. On this occasion it might be appropriate to add a few comments on the history of the High Commissioner proposal. As Mr Clark indicates I had something to do with its revival in the United States Government during the closing months of the Kennedy Administration. A few details as to how this revival took place may perhaps be useful to students of international relations and international organization.

The Politics of Evaluation in International Organizations Vytautas Jankauskas, Steffen Eckhard, 2023 This book explores the internal machinery of evaluation systems in international organizations and challenges the conventional understanding of evaluation as a value free activity. The authors propose new ways of better reconciling evaluation politics with the need to gather reliable evidence to improve the functioning of the United Nations.

Carbon Pricing in Emerging Economies İzzet Arı,2025-05-13 Carbon pricing is one of the key policy instruments available to help countries reach the goals of the Paris Agreement and the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change UNFCCC This book explores the challenges and opportunities facing emerging economies in the implementation of carbon pricing with a particular focus on the case of Türkiye After introducing the principles and practicalities of carbon pricing mechanisms the book explores the economic feasibility of Türkiye achieving Nationally Determined Contributions NDCs and net zero emissions targets It is argued that its national circumstances hinder Türkiye's use of carbon crediting mechanisms auctions for carbon certificate units and building bilateral and multilateral cooperation with other countries leaving the voluntary carbon market as the only option The book explores the implications of this and also highlights the need for improvements and reform in Türkiye's climate laws public institutions and international relations to better support carbon pricing The book also recommends aligning carbon pricing with ongoing energy market reforms including the replacement of fossil fuel subsidies with more targeted support This book will be of significant interest to readers of energy economics environmental economics emerging economies and climate change more broadly

States Without Nations Jacqueline Stevens,2009-11-17 As citizens we hold certain truths to be self evident that the rights to own land marry inherit property and especially to assume birthright citizenship should be guaranteed by the state The laws promoting these rights appear not only to preserve our liberty but to guarantee society remains just Yet considering how much violence and inequality results from these legal mandates Jacqueline Stevens asks whether we might be making the wrong assumptions Would a world without such laws be more just Arguing that the core laws of the nation state are more about a fear of death than a desire for freedom Jacqueline Stevens imagines a world in which birthright citizenship family inheritance state sanctioned marriage and private land ownership are eliminated Would chaos be the result Drawing on political theory and history and incorporating contemporary social and economic data she brilliantly critiques our sentimental attachments to birthright citizenship inheritance and marriage and highlights their harmful outcomes including war global apartheid destitution family misery and environmental damage It might be hard to imagine countries without the rules of membership and ownership that have come to define them but as Stevens shows conjuring new ways of reconciling our laws with the condition of mortality reveals the flaws of our present institutions and inspires hope for moving beyond them

The United Nations and Space Security Annette Froehlich, Vincent Seffinga, 2019-08-10 This book provides a detailed analysis on the history and development of the Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space UNCOPUOS and the Conference on Disarmament CD and the coordination and cooperation between these two fora Furthermore it discusses the future challenges that these fora will have to deal with and conclude in which way the current system can change to cope with the evolution of space matters This is necessary for the proper discussion of space matters because these matters cannot simply be divided between military and non military but are interrelated
