

How to Survive a Zombie Attack

One team (the "ZOMB" subgroup) will act zombies throughout the next phase of your model building. Their objective is to "hunt" the other teams (human team) until they are "dead." Each group has 10 minutes per day. Then they can not enter back in until their time is completely exhausted. Humans are the players. Complete the table below to show how many zombies there will be every day for every day for the next 10 days of the attack. The original subgroup will last only 1 round, but keep in mind that newly created zombies will have the power just like the original ones when they

| Day | Number of Zombies created each day | Time | Number of Zombies created each day |
|-----|------------------------------------|------|------------------------------------|
| 1   | 1                                  | 0    |                                    |
| 2   |                                    | 10   |                                    |
| 3   |                                    | 20   |                                    |

What's more?

1. What percentage of people do you expect to be humans and zombies created each day for the days going? Explain.

2. What would this data look like on a graph? Sketch a graph of the data for days 1-10.
