Khudanpur,Mari Ostendorf,Roni Rosenfeld,2012-12-06 Speech and language technologies continue to grow in importance as they are used to create natural and efficient interfaces between people and machines and to automatically transcribe extract analyze and route information from high volume streams of spoken and written information The workshops on Mathematical Foundations of Speech Processing and Natural Language Modeling were held in the Fall of 2000 at the University of Minnesota's NSF sponsored Institute for Mathematics and Its Applications as part of a Mathematics in Multimedia year long program. Each workshop brought together researchers in the respective technologies on the one hand and mathematicians and statisticians on the other hand for an intensive week of cross fertilization. There is a long history of benefit from introducing mathematical techniques and ideas to speech and language technologies. Examples include the source channel paradigm, hidden Markov models, decision trees, exponential models and formal languages theory. It is likely that new mathematical techniques or novel applications of existing techniques will once again prove pivotal for moving the field forward. This volume consists of original contributions presented by participants during the two workshops. Topics include language modeling, prosody, acoustic, phonetic modeling and statistical methodology.
