A 21st Century Plague Elayne Clift, 2021-06-07 It is more than a year since Covid 19 invaded our countries and our bodies causing us to long for the touch of loved ones to fight anxiety and despair and to adjust to the stunning effects of prolonged isolation We watched as the numbers of deaths mounted and agreed that it was the worst health crisis we'd experienced in a hundred years We saw pictures of those we'd lost and resisted having them treated as mere statistics What we longed for were stories about people lost to the insidious virus and those left behind We wanted stories of survival coping finding our way to the future We wanted stories that made us laugh weep empathize share sadness become better people ourselves That s because storytelling whether sung danced painted acted or written in prose and poetry is primal It s how we come to understand the world around us Stories give us wholeness and allow us to recover something vital and true in our lives Stories as writer Sue Monk Kidd knows are the life of the soul Telling and hearing stories of how we got through this dreadful pandemic is how we say what happened with empathy so that future generations will know what it was like to live in isolation for over a year to feel afraid while trying to be brave to cope and even to grow because of the shared experience The stories we tell and the carefully crafted words we use to tell them are an act of remembrance in which our words build monuments to a time when our lives called upon us to carry on and to endure to know what really matters to know what to cling to and what to let go In making much of the mundane 53 poets share 70 poems in the anthology A 21st Century Plague Poetry from a Pandemic The poems by diverse and award winning writers capture and share the collective Covid experience in which we became gardeners of the spirit who know that without darkness nothing comes to birth as writer May Sarton put it They reveal that we were brave in our contemplative journey and that we dared to deal with our bag of fears as Eudora Welty said we must The poetic expressions of such courage are healing They soothe us and help us recover from and recall a transformative experience This anthology adds to the tradition of sharing stories in well chosen words that move and enlighten us
