What's More

- Simple Random Sampling:
 - A sampling method where each element of the population has an equal chance of being selected. This can be done through the Table of Random Numbers or Lottery Method.
- Systematic Random Sampling:
 - It is done by selecting every k th element in your population list. The sampling k , is calculated by dividing the population size by the desired sample size.
- Stratified Random Sampling:
 - It is done by grouping the elements in the population according to shared characteristic/s. Then, the researcher selects the appropriate number of samples from each group.
- Cluster Random Sampling:
 - A sampling method used when the whole is subdivided into clusters, or groups, and random samples are then collected from each group.
