The Critique of Bioethical Principlism in Contrast to an African Approach to Bioethics Jude Thaddaeus Buyondo, 2024-08-16 Though some argue that bioethics in the Black African world is simply a reflection of the Western approach to bioethics this work suggests otherwise While the Western approach bioethical principlism claims to offer an absolute approach to bioethics in a universalized common morality this book argues that bioethical principlism can be complemented with African approaches to bioethics Western principlism as primarily presented by Thomas L Beauchamp and James F Childress can hardly be incarnated in the African context of bioethical problems unless it is complemented by a contextual normative understanding of African social realities realities that themselves must be enriched by bioethical principlism Without claiming to offer the last word on intercultural bioethics or disputing which bioethical approaches deserve prioritization the work interactively relies on ordinary moral experiences that are practically visible in lived social realities as well as the community realities surrounding Africans south of the Sahara Prescriptively in order to not simply promote life but to do so fully the African ethical system supports an integral community life by continuously promoting the norm of solidarity continued vitality and the hierarchization of life within the corporate community which the individual must not blindly follow but responsibly interact with without her identity freedom and conscience being crushed

Lore of Nutrition Tim Noakes, 2017-11-01 In December 2010 Professor Tim Noakes was introduced to a way of eating that was contrary to everything he had been taught and was accepted as conventional nutrition wisdom Having observed the benefits of the low carb high fat lifestyle first hand and after thorough and intensive research Noakes enthusiastically revealed his findings to the South African public in 2012 The backlash from his colleagues in the medical establishment was as swift as it was brutal and culminated in a misconduct inquiry launched by the Health Professions Council of South Africa The subsequent hearing lasted well over a year but Noakes ultimately triumphed being found not guilty of unprofessional conduct in April 2017 In Lore of Nutrition he explains the science behind the low carb high fat Banting diet and why he champions this lifestyle despite the constant persecution and efforts to silence him He also discusses at length what he has come to see as a medical and scientific code of silence that discourages anyone in the profession from speaking out against the current dietary guidelines Leading food health and medical journalist Marika Sboros who attended every day of the HPCSA hearing provides the fascinating backstory to the inquiry which often reads like a spy novel Lore of Nutrition is an eye opener and a must read for anyone who cares about their health

Reconceiving Reproductive Health: Theological and Christian Ethical Reflections Manitza Kotzé, Nadia Marais, Nina Müller van Velden, Nadine Bowers du Toit, Mwawi N. Chilongozi, Hanzline R. Davids, Gideon R. Kotzé, Tayla Minnaar, Peter Nagel, Selina Palm, Jeremy Punt, Riaan Rheeder, Tanya van Wyk, Fralene van Zyl, 2019-12-12 While reproduction is fairly often touched upon in theological and Christian ethical discussions reproductive health is not However reproductive health is a matter of theological and ethical concern Discussion pertaining to reproductive health includes a number of debates about for instance abortion and the termination of pregnancy reproductive loss childlessness infertility stillbirth miscarriage and adoption Additionally new reproductive possibilities made available by the development of reproductive technology have necessitated theological and ethical reflection on for example surrogacy post menopausal pregnancies litter births single mothers or fathers by choice in vitro fertilisation and the so called saviour siblings These new developments compel us to reconceive our notions of what reproductive health is or should be Many of these topics are receiving increasing attention in a variety of theological publications The focus of this volume is unique however and to the best of our knowledge this is the first volume dealing not only with reproductive issues but also reflecting theologically and ethically on reproductive health It makes a contribution by providing a variety of perspectives from different theological fields on this theme and in many chapters focussing especially on the South African context These discussions are also part of urgent debates within churches which require developing life giving theological language and imaginative theological alternatives that may speak to experiences of matters relating to reproductive health. The popular books, TV series and films that touch upon these discussions, including The Handmaid's Tale and Mother, strengthen the perception that a more in-depth theological and ethical discussion on the theme may be necessary, particularly towards exploring stories and confessions from our faith tradition that may provide us with a timely opportunity to do the important work of theological reconceiving.

Health Communication and Disease in Africa Bankole Falade, Mercy Murire, 2021-09-27

This book is a collection of essays from across Africa which highlight the roles of beliefs and traditions in health behaviour. Chapters address mental health, risk perception, stigma, reproductive health, religion and health. The book also examines conceptual approaches in health communication and community development, both western and indigenous. Specific topics include Alzheimer's, HIV and stigma, perception of risk from obesity, HIV prevention and preeclampsia, doctor-patient relationship and health beliefs of birth attendants, culture and mental health, access and social media effects on mental health, the complementary use of contemporary and indigenous communication strategies and the accommodation of science by religious leaders during the COVID-19 pandemic. The book, which starts by examining global inequalities in health, proposes an African approach informed by problematisation as theorised by Foucault and Freire to unpack habits and social problems. It ends by asking the question: Is science enough? and making a strong case for health-enabling environments alongside science communication.
