Making Public in a Privatized World David A. McDonald, 2016-02-15 How do we provide effective public services in a deeply neoliberal world In the wake of the widespread failure of privatisation efforts societies in the global south are increasingly seeking progressive ways of recreating the public sector With contributors ranging from cutting edge scholars to activists working in health water and energy provision and with case studies covering a broad spectrum of localities and actors Making Public in a Privatized World uncovers the radically different ways in which public services are being reshaped from the grassroots up From communities holding the state accountable for public health in rural Guatemala to waste pickers in India and decentralized solar electricity initiatives in Africa the essays in this collection offer probing insights into the complex ways in which people are building genuine alternatives to privatization while also illustrating the challenges which communities face in creating public services which are not subordinated to the logic of the market or to the monolithic state entities of the past

African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development Mafukata, Mavhungu Abel, Tshikolomo, Khathutshelo Alfred, 2019-11-22 Development studies in developing regions such as Southern Africa rely heavily on materials developed by Europeans with a European context European dominance in development studies emanates from the fact that the discipline was first developed by Europeans Some argue that this has led to distortions in theory and practice of development in Southern Africa This book wishes to begin Africa's expedition to develop proper material to de Westernize while Africanizing the context of the scholarship of rural development African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development is an essential reference source that repositions the context of rural development studies from the Western centric knowledge system into an African context in order to solve African centered problems Featuring research on topics such as food security poverty reduction and community engagement this book is ideally designed for planners researchers practitioners policymakers government officials academicians and students seeking clarity on theory and practice of development in Africa

Tracing the Domestic Pig Goran Kušec, Ivona Djurkin Kušec, 2024-07-10 The appearance of the domestic pig today is shaped mainly by the economic expectations of us humans Today's pig has superior reproductive fattening and carcass traits compared to its ancient ancestors This could not be achieved without the highly effective support of scientific research aimed at revealing the genetic basis underlying the important economic traits of pigs and the involvement of novel technologies in phenotyping these animals both in vivo and post mortem Yet the research is spreading beyond the biological issues connected to the production of pigs and their products The latest developments in computer science and informatics technology enable us to collect and store information from all stages in the production of food leading back to its origin Questions about the breed the way the pigs were raised how were they managed and how they were processed into a wide palette of products can be answered by the use of methodologies developed by data scientists and those from the fields of different omics All this information can be passed along the chain to consumers in a repeatable manner The producers can use these data to manage such complex issues as meat or product quality And this closes the circle Tracing the domestic pig is an attempt to present the current knowledge about this valuable animal its origin composition and the food that it gives us and to predict or foresee what can happen to this species in the time to come
