Paratransit in African Cities Roger Behrens,Dorothy McCormick,David Mfinanga,2015-09-07 Public transport systems in contemporary Sub Saharan African cities are heavily reliant upon paratransit services These services are defined as informal transportation which operates between the public and individual private spheres In Africa paratransit is characterized by low quality of vehicles and chaotic management but it also provides cheap accessible and flexible transport solutions for the urban poor It is typically poorly regulated and operates as a set of informal businesses A common result of weak public sector regulation and a fare strategy in which owners claim a fixed daily revenue target and drivers who keep the variable balance as income is destructive competition and poor quality of service There is an incontrovertible case for improving the quality reliability and coverage of public transport systems and some city governments have attempted to do so by initiating reform projects that envisage the phased replacement of paratransit operations with formalised bus rapid transit systems In this book the authors argue that there are however path dependencies and constraints that limit the possible extent of public transport system reform Paratransit operations also have some inherent advantages with respect to demand responsiveness and service innovation Attempts to eradicate paratransit may be neither pragmatic nor strategic Two future scenarios are likely hybrid systems comprised of both paratransit and formally planned modes and systems improved by upgrades and strengthened regulation of existing paratransit services The business strategies and aspirations of incumbent paratransit operators in three case cities Cape Town Dar es Salaam and Nairobi are discussed as well as their attitudes towards emerging public transport reform projects International experiences of hybrid system regulation and paratransit business development are reviewed in order to explore policy options The authors contend that policies recognising paratransit operators and seeking contextually appropriate complementarity with formalised planned services will produce greater benefits than policies ignoring their continued existence World Energy Handbook Slobodan Petrovic,2023-09-30 World Energy Handbook presents an overview of the energy systems of selected countries in Africa Asia the Americas and Europe It is a complete guide to energy history and generation in these countries including renewable energy storage and use The authors follow the same analytical approach for each country to construct comprehensive surveys of all aspects of energy systems examining the advantages and disadvantages of each country's energy infrastructures. The handbook aims to raise awareness about the condition and deficiencies of energy systems in developing countries and the potential for the countries to improve, grow and advance the technologies for energy generation especially by turning to renewable energy sources to increase energy storage capacities and optimizing the way subsystems are integrated. The book serves as a must-have guide for decision makers, investors, business people and other professionals to understand the global distribution of energy generation, transmission and each country's carbon footprint and identify opportunities for energy system improvement worldwide.

Iconic Works of Art by Feminists and Gender Activists Brenda Schmahmann, 2021-07-22. In this book contributors identify and explore a range of iconic works, Mistress Pieces, that have been made by feminists and gender activists since the 1970s. The first volume for which the defining of iconic feminist art is the raison d'être, its contributors interpret a Mistress Piece as a work that has proved influential in a particular context because of its distinctiveness and relevance. Reinterpreting iconic art by Alice Neel, Hannah Wilke and Ana Mendieta, the authors also offer important insights about works that may be less well known, those by Natalia LL, Tanja Ostojić, Swoon, Clara Meneses, Diane Victor, Usha Seejarim, Ilse Fuskov, Phaptawan Suwannakudt and Tracey Moffatt among others. While in some instances revealing cross-influences between artists working in different frameworks, the publication simultaneously makes evident how social and political factors specific to particular countries had significant impact on the making and reception of art focused on gender. The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history, visual studies and gender studies.

African Print Cultures Derek Peterson, Steph Newell, Emma Hunter, 2016-09-29. The essays collected in African Print Cultures claim African newspapers as subjects of historical and literary study. Newspapers were not only vehicles for anticolonial nationalism. They were also incubators of literary experimentation and networks by which new solidarities came into being. By focusing on the creative work that African editors and contributors did, this volume brings an infrastructure of African public culture into view. The first of four thematic sections, African Newspaper Networks, considers the work that newspaper editors did to relate events within their locality to happenings in far-off places. This work of correlation and juxtaposition made it possible for distant people to see themselves as fellow travellers. Experiments with Genre explores how newspapers nurtured the development of new literary genres such as poetry, realist fiction, photoplays and travel writing in African languages and in English. Newspapers and Their Publics looks at the ways in which African newspapers fostered the creation of new kinds of communities and served as networks for public interaction, political and otherwise. The final section, Afterlives, is about the longue durée of history that newspapers helped to structure and how throughout the twentieth century print allowed contributors to view their writing as material meant for posterity.
