Information Technology Applications for Crisis Response and Management Beard, Jon W., 2021-02-19. Properly addressing a crisis requires more than just guesswork and a reaction; it requires a properly structured approach supported by good information. With the rapid evolution of information systems and information technology including hardware, software, the internet and communications capabilities, there are abundant opportunities to apply these technology capabilities and resources to support and improve responses to and management of crisis situations. Approaches to crisis response and management include the design, development, implementation and application of systematic methodologies on how to respond as well as how to apply information systems to enhance and extend responses to crises. Information Technology Applications for Crisis Response and Management provides a multi-disciplinary perspective on current and cutting edge research exploring and extending our understanding of the use of information systems and information technology to support responses to crises of all kinds: accidental, intentional and acts of nature. The chapters in this book focus on the design, development, implementation, use and evaluation of information system technologies and methodologies to support crisis response and management as well as technology management related issues for crisis response and management. While highlighting technical, cognitive, organizational and human focused issues within the field, this book is ideal for policymakers, IT specialists, government officials, crisis response teams, managers, practitioners, researchers, academicians and students interested in the use of information technology and information systems to support diverse types of crises.

Ownership and Governance of Companies Jonathan Michie,Vishnu Padayachee,2021-06-29 Apartheid South Africa was often thought to run in the interests of the business elite Yet 27 years after apartheid those business interests remain largely entrenched Why Did the South African business community play a role in engineering this outcome perhaps recognising the apartheid era was over and jumping ship in time Conversely the mission of the ANC was widely perceived to be to shift wealth and power into the hands of the whole community Yet despite black empowerment measures corporate ownership remains largely in white hands and certainly in the hands of an elite few even though no longer restricted to whites This picture is replicated across the global south where corporate ownership tends to be concentrated in the hands of an elite rather than being more democratically spread Why have alternative corporate forms not been pursued more vigorously with ownership in the hands of customers employees and local communities In the case of South Africa where the majority of customers and employees are black this could have delivered on the ANC's mission to replace the apartheid era with a democratic one in terms of wealth incomes and power as well as in terms of voting and civic rights This edited volume explores all these questions and looks at ways to align corporate forms with economic and social goals The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of International Review of Applied Economics

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent

Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages. Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools. The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully. The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience. Climate Change, Hazards and Adaptation Options Walter Leal Filho, Gustavo J. Nagy, Marco Borga, Pastor David Chávez Muñoz, Artur

Magnuszewski, 2020-02-14 This book addresses the issue of climate change risks and hazards holistically. Climate change adaptation aims at managing climate risks and hazards to an acceptable level taking advantage of any positive opportunities that may arise. At the same time developing suitable responses to hazards for communities and users of climate services is important in ensuring the success of adaptation measures. But despite this knowledge about adaptation options including possible actions that can be implemented to improve adaptation and reduce the impacts of climate change hazards is still limited. Addressing this need the book presents studies and research findings and offers a catalogue of potential adaptation options that can be explored. It also includes case studies providing illustrative and inspiring examples of how we can adapt to a changing climate. Handbook of Research on Heritage Management and Preservation Ngulube, Patrick, 2018-02-02 Archives, museums and libraries are pivotal to the management and preservation of any society's heritage. Heritage assets should be systematically managed by putting in place proper policies, maintenance procedures, security and risks measures and retrieval and preservation plans. The Handbook of Research on Heritage Management and Preservation is a critical scholarly resource that examines different aspects of heritage management and preservation ranging from theories that underline the field areas of convergence and divergence in the field infrastructure and the policy framework that governs the field and the influence of the changing landscape on practice. Featuring coverage on a broad range of topics such as community involvement, records legislation and collection development, this book is geared towards academicians, researchers and students seeking current research on heritage management and preservation. Global Space Governance: An International Study Ram S. Jakhu, Joseph N. Pelton, 2017-09-12 This book is based on the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the Global Space Governance study commissioned by the 2014 Montreal Declaration that called upon civil society, academics, governments, the private sector and other stakeholders to undertake an international interdisciplinary study. The study took three years to complete. It examines the drivers of space regulations and standards, key regulatory problems and especially addresses possible improvements in global space governance. The world's leading experts led the drafting of chapters with input from academics and knowledgeable professionals in the public and private sectors, intergovernmental organizations and nongovernmental organizations from all the regions of the world with over 80 total participants This book and areas identified for priority action are to be presented to the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space and it is hoped will be considered directly or indirectly at the UNISPACE 50 event in Vienna Austria in 2018 The report a collective work of all the contributors includes objective analysis and frank statements expressed without pressure of political national and occupational concerns or interest It is peer reviewed and carefully edited to ensure its accuracy preciseness and readability It is expected that the study and derivative recommendations will form the basis for deliberations and decisions at international conferences and meetings around the world on the theme of global space governance This will hopefully include future discussion at the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space

Language and Institutional Identity in the Post-Apartheid South African Higher Education Leketi

Makalela,2022-03-21 This book examines the intersections between education identity formation and language in post apartheid South Africa with specific attention to higher education It does so against the backdrop of the core argument that the sector plays a critical role in shaping re producing and perpetuating sectoral class sub national and national identities which in turn in the peculiar South African setting are almost invariably analogous with the historical fault lines determined and dictated by language as a marker of ethnic and racial identity The chapters in the book grapple with the nuances related to these intersections in the understanding that higher education language policies overt and or covert largely structure institutional cultures or what has been described as curriculum in higher education institutions Together the chapters examine the roles played by higher education by language policies and by the intersections of these policies and ethnolinguistic identities in either constructing and perpetuating or deconstructing ethnolinguistic identities upon which the sector was founded The introductory chapter lays out the background to the entire book with an emphasis on the policy and practice perspectives on the intersections The middle chapters describe the so called White Universities Black Universities and Middle Man Minorities Universities The final chapter maps out future directions of the discourses on language and identity formation in South Africa s higher education
