

to think so (Leitch, p 85). Untraceable abounds in such tricks, especially, when the daughter of Agent Jenifer Marsh seems to be kidnapped by the maniac. Occasionally, such effect is achieved without any visual aids, only by means of music. It appears that the film-makers tried to make full use of music, which often misleads the viewer, and makes him or her form false conclusions about the development of the plot.

Finally, we should speak about traditional happy ending. Over the last decade, many cinematographers have abandoned this essentially Hollywood approach, labeling it as banal or too orthodox and confirmative. Detective Jenifer Marsh is rescued by her partners, the maniac is no longer dangerous, and the film, itself, draws to its logical close. Thus, it would not be an exaggeration for us to state that Untraceable has all typical features of a suspense thriller. Its storyline, the main characters (and their prototypes) eloquently prove that this is a formulaic movie, based on some well-established patterns.

This argument must not be perceived as an accusation. One should not forget that we are living in the age of postmodernism, in which every work of art (a book, film, musical piece etc) contains reminiscences, or allusions to another one. Naturally, art, itself has become highly commercialized; unfortunately sometimes it turns into mass consumer goods. On the one hand, we may suggest that Untraceable is just a popcorn film that comes into oblivion immediately after the release. Yet, such treatment is slightly superficial and does not fully disclose the essence of this work.

The question arises how the genre of a thriller has changed during the recent years. We can hardly identify exact timelines, because this process is very slow and gradual. At first glance, the distinctive features are not obvious and evasive. In order to detect these changes, we need to draw parallels between Untraceable and other films, executed in the style of a thriller or detective story.

First, in a traditional crime movie, the main character or the detective, who tries to capture the criminal, is a male, whereas women are usually portrayed as vulnerable and fragile, someone, who need to be protected and even rescued. Naturally, there are many films, picturing women as the main rivals of the dangerous villain, but this tendency is relatively young, it began to manifest itself approximately ten or twelve years (Leitch, p 182).

Probably, this trend in cinematography illustrates the impact of feminist movement on the modern society. The gender roles began to change and common stereotypes, deep-rooted in the public opinion are now broken. This shift is not complete, but its tokens have already become palpable, especially in literature and cinematography, which act as a mirror, reflecting the principles or behavior patterns, adopted in the present day community.
