British Horror Cinema Steve Chibnall, Julian Petley, 2001-11-15 British Horror Cinema investigates a wealth of horror filmmaking in Britain from early chillers like The Ghouls and Dark Eyes of London to acknowledged classics such as Peeping Tom and The Wicker Man. Contributors explore the contexts in which British horror films have been censored and classified, judged by their critics and consumed by their fans. Uncovering neglected modern classics like Deathline and addressing issues such as the representation of family and women, they consider the Britishness of British horror and examine sub-genres such as the psycho thriller and witchcraft movies. The work of the Amicus studio and key filmmakers including Peter Walker. Chapters include the Psycho Thriller, the British censors and horror cinema, femininity and horror film fandom, witchcraft and the occult in British horror, horrific films and 1930s British Cinema, Peter Walker and Gothic revisionism. Also featuring a comprehensive filmography and interviews with key directors Clive Barker and Doug Bradley, this is one resource film studies students should not be without.

The 'One Planet' Life David Thorpe, 2014-11-13 The One Planet Life demonstrates a path for everyone towards a way of life in which we don't act as if we had more than one planet Earth. The difference between this approach and others is that it uses ecological footprint analysis to help to determine how effective our efforts are. Much of the book is a manual with examples on how to live the good life and supply over 65% of your livelihood from your land with mostly positive impacts upon the environment. It examines the pioneering Welsh policy One Planet Development then considers efforts towards one planet living in urban areas. After a foreword by BioRegional One Planet Living co-founder Pooran Desai and an introduction by former Welsh environment minister Jane Davidson, the book contains an essay arguing that our attitude to planning land and development needs to change to enable truly sustainable development. Guidelines on finding land, finance and creating a personal plan for one planet living. Detailed guides on sustainable building, supplying your own food, generating renewable energy, reducing carbon emissions from travel, land management, water supply and waste treatment. 20 exemplary examples at all scales from micro businesses to suburbs followed by Jane Davidson's Afterword. The book will interest anyone seeking to find out how a sustainable lifestyle can be achieved. It is also key reading for rural and built environment practitioners and policy makers keen to support low impact initiatives and for students studying aspects of planning, geography, governance, sustainability and renewable energy.
