Monuments on the Horizon Quentin Bourgeois,2013 Barrows as burial markers are ubiquitous throughout North Western Europe In some regions dense concentrations of monuments form peculiar configurations such as long alignments while in others they are spread out extensively dotting vast areas with hundreds of mounds These vast barrow landscapes came about through thousands of years of additions by several successive prehistoric and historic communities Yet little is known about how these landscapes developed and came about That is what this research set out to do By unravelling the histories of specific barrow landscapes in the Low Countries several distinct activity phases of intense barrow construction could be recognised Each of these phases contributed in a particular fashion to how the barrow landscape developed and reveals shifting attitudes to these landscape monuments By creating new monuments in a specific place and in a particular fashion prehistoric communities purposefully transformed the form and shape of the barrow landscape Using several GIS techniques such as a skyline analysis this research was able to demonstrate how each barrow then took up a specific and different position within such a social landscape While the majority of the barrows were only visible from relatively close by specific monuments took up a dominating position cresting the horizon and they were visible from much further away It was argued that these burial mounds remained important landscape monuments on the purple heathlands They continued to attract attention and by their visibility ensured to endure in the collective memory of the communities shaping themselves around these monuments This publication is part of the Ancestral Mounds Research Project of the University of Leiden

Bromley,2011 Fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state's charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society My dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country Globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition I examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education The analyses consist of two sections Hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970-2008 These findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well established liberal democracies Cross national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in British Columbia BC which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights The BC study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871 It also draws on a selection of historical documents including Ministry of Education reports curricular frameworks and high school exit exams Process wise I find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro level changes in national and global society Content wise I find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity 1 framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity 2 using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency 3 celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride and 4 drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy This study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend A key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world Further students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change organizational structure and governance and the way marketization is affecting the internal distribution of power and the definition of priorities Finally the volume includes several chapters focusing on the different markets of higher education such as the academic labour market undergraduate and postgraduate education and research markets Altogether these chapters provide important insights concerning the many national and institutional contexts in which the marketization of higher education has been taking place around the world

Contemporary Issues in Corporate Social Responsibility Duygu Turker,Huriye Toker,Ceren Altuntas,2013-12-18 As a result of the industrialization urbanization and population increase during the last two centuries the global landscape has been irreversibly damaged These anthropological pressures have create endless problems on the global level and individuals and organizations are beginning to realize their own ever increasing responsibility to consider the welfare and interests of all stakeholders as a whole Although the improvements in the legal framework at the national and international level can be viewed as an important step to protect society and the natural environment a legal course provides a reactive mode of control rather than a proactive approach Considering its proactive approach and voluntarily basis the concept of social responsibility can provide a significant tool of generating a sustainable future During such a paradigm shift Contemporary Issues in Corporate Social Responsibility presents the significant roles that universities must embrace in order to take charge of the future In parallel to those movements many institutions include a course on social responsibility yet the studies on the education of social responsibility in the literature show that there is no commonly accepted teaching methods and guiding curriculum of CSR This book was designed based on the outcomes of an Erasmus Intensive Project IP which was organized in Yasar University during June 2012 with the contribution of 9 European universities Based on the interactive feedback of participants during the project this book sheds light on the ongoing discussion of corporate social responsibility from a European perspective EBOOK: Principles and Practice of Marketing, 9e David Jobber, Fiona Ellis-Chadwick, 2019-08-01 EBOOK Principles and Practice of Marketing 9e
