Politics of Social Psychology Jarret T. Crawford, Lee Jussim, 2017-07-28 Social scientists have long known that political beliefs bias the way they think about, understand and interpret the world around them. In this volume, scholars from social psychology and related fields explore the ways in which social scientists themselves have allowed their own political biases to influence their research. These biases may influence the development of research hypotheses, the design of studies and methods and materials chosen to test hypotheses, decisions to publish or not publish results based on their consistency with one's prior political beliefs and how results are described and dissemination to the popular press. The fact that these processes occur within academic disciplines such as social psychology that strongly skew to the political left compounds the problem. Contributors to this volume not only identify and document the ways that social psychologists' political beliefs can and have influenced research but also offer solutions towards a more depoliticized social psychology that can become a model for discourse across the social sciences.

Social Psychology John D. DeLamater, Daniel J. Myers, Jessica L. Collett, 2018-05-04 Written by well-known sociologists John D. DeLamater, Daniel J. Myers and Jessica L. Collett, this fully revised and updated edition of Social Psychology is a highly accessible and engaging exploration of the question: what is it that makes us who we are? With hundreds of real-world examples, figures and photographs and grounded in the latest research, the text explores such topics as self-attitudes, social influence, emotions, interpersonal attraction and relationships and collective behavior. The book also explains the methods that social psychologists use to investigate human behavior in a social context and the theoretical perspectives that ground the discipline. Each chapter is a self-contained unit for ease of use in any classroom.

Advancing Islamic Psychology Education G. Hussein Rassool, 2023-07-20 This book provides academic and clinical institutions for developing their educational programmes in psychology, psychotherapy and counselling from an Islamic paradigm. Examining the educational approach in the decolonisation of psychology curricula, the book proposes a vertically and horizontally integrated embedded curriculum model. This model meets the changing needs of practitioners incorporating indigenous cultural aspects and emerging technologies to reflect new and creative ways of thinking about delivering education in the post-Covid 19 era. The chapters also demonstrate how curriculum development based on the principles of Islamic education helps institutions to establish, purpose, define activities and guide decision-making in educational development. A series of steps for implementing this need-driven educational programme has been suggested. This practical, concise and evidenced-based text will be a key resource for educators and trainers. It will help them understand how to re-design or suggest changes to curriculum structure, shape and content in Islamic psychology, psychotherapy and counselling for undergraduate, postgraduate and continuing professional development levels of education.
