- Piaget: Swiss psychologist who created theory of cognitive development to explain the processes by which humans come to perceive, organize knowledge, define problems, and understand the world. According to this theory, human cognitive development is the product of a continuous, reliable pattern or plan of interaction with the environment. Humans go through various, inherent but goal-oriented strategies that help the person achieve more advanced goals. These schemes are continuously (re)creating in infancy and early childhood, in which patterns and motor programs are generated, and cognition (based on experience and on mental images, reflecting the person's ability to develop the use of abstract reasoning and symbolism).
- Freud: German psychologist who worked on human psychological development theory. Created 5 stages of life.
- Robert Rorty: Proposed panic theory, calling it both narcissism and development in women. Thought therapy proposed that more important feelings of inferiority because they cannot give birth to children.
- Western & Eastern: Created another basic solutions, which the same on psychological mechanisms. Begins with non-specific teaching only, leads to partial teaching. Used to measure pleasure without pressure to perform and/or achieve goals.
- John Turk and Virginia Robinson: started functional theory. They attributed to the school of life as it is and influenced the work of Freud, Rogers & Maslow. This school was presented as contrast to the dogmatic school of thought (which was previously psychological).
