Baker,1928 Argument Writing as a Supplemental Literacy Intervention for At-Risk Youth Margaret

Sheehy,Donna M. Scanlon,2021-11-28 This volume details the development and initial evaluation of a supplemental literacy course intended to support at risk high school students in the US Developed using design based research DBR the course combines argument writing and knowledge building literacy routines to support academic literacy development Acknowledging the demand for US students to meet academic literacy standards that emphasize explanatory and argumentative writing the text foregrounds knowledge building as key to effective writing development Chapters trace the development and implementation of course literacy routines designed using DBR and use whole class and individual case studies to demonstrate how informational reading discussion and argument writing become an activity system to support literacy development Ultimately the text has important implications for literacy course design and the use of knowledge building analysis and DBR in research The text will benefit researchers academics and educators in higher education with an interest in academic literacy education writing and composition and secondary education more broadly Those specifically interested in methodologies relating to classroom teaching and learning as well as argumentation and argument writing will also benefit from this book Tests and Assessments in Counseling Bill McHenry,Kathryn C. MacCluskie,Jim

McHenry,2018-04-09 Tests and Assessments in Counseling provides students with current information on assessment tools and techniques through detailed case scenarios and vignettes Going beyond basic information about a multitude of assessments the authors focus on the use of instruments in individual cases to allow readers to more fully grasp the integral relationship between tests and assessment data and the counseling process Chapters guide students through choosing the most effective assessment tool successfully administering the assessment and making meaningful and useful results of the data with the client Test questions are also included at the end of each chapter Predictive Validities for First-year Criteria at the Air Force Academy United States. Air Force Personnel and Training Research Center, San Antonio, John D. Krumboltz, Raymond E. Christal, 1957 Academic Enhancement Tools Keith Bricker, 2013-05-28 Academic enhancement activities were practiced in high school for ten years and involved over fifteen hundred families The participation rate was over 90 percent Students in the twelve to fifteen year range participated with their parents The ten activities focus on identifying natural interests likes and preferences the student has demonstrated from age three to the present These activities are used to identify competencies skills that lead the student to logical career family and community options Parents provide objective advice and information to assist the student to discover their natural traits School personnel can manage the process and give suggestions that fit the school curriculum and provide options for the future It is the student and then the parent s that are the prime decision makers with this process The activities rely on objective information from parents students schools businesses and the communities The process draws from each to promote student academic enhancement Remember schools prepare students for success in each of these areas It is reasonable that direction should come from outside and within the educational community for student planning and school curriculum changes Parents are the prime resource because they know the student well and work in these areas of the community School Choice William H. Jeynes, 2014-04-25 Are public charter schools more effective than traditional public schools This book provides quantitative evidence to answer this question and considers a better way to undertake a policy of school choice School Choice A Balanced Approach is the most comprehensive examination of traditional public schools public charter schools and faith based schools that has ever been undertaken By considering and comparing the overall data on these three types of educational systems it provides insight on likely outcomes of school choice programs The author s objective is not to advance any particular agenda but rather to provide readers with an unbiased analysis of research that has been embraced by both the G W Bush and Obama administrations that will allow for fresh thinking and the betterment of American education as a whole Author William H Jeynes PhD asks vital questions regarding the school choice issue that are often overlooked Which specific programs of school choice are likely to work and which would likely fail Is school choice really a boon for the private sector How might the implementation of school choice programs increase or decrease the financial burden on government budget deficits This book carefully addresses a relevant topic that ultimately affects every American making it essential reading for everyone from government officials and educators to students and the general public Historical Outlook, 1920 Parental Involvement and Academic Success, Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on academic progress over time Known as value added models VAMs these methods are meant to measure the value a teacher or school adds to student learning from one year to the next To date however there is very little evidence to support the trustworthiness of these models What is becoming increasingly evident yet often ignored mainly by policymakers is that VAMs are 1 unreliable 2 invalid 3 nontransparent 4 unfair 5 fraught with measurement errors and 6 being inappropriately used to make consequential decisions regarding such things as teacher pay retention and termination Unfortunately their unintended consequences are not fully recognized at this point either Given such the timeliness of this well researched and thoughtful book cannot be overstated This book sheds important light on the debate surrounding VAMs and thereby offers states and practitioners a highly important resource from which they can move forward in more research based ways
