

SOC 1-001/050 Fall 2020
Final Exam Study Guide

Topics/Questions:

- 1. Summarize the Presidential Election of 2020 listing and thoroughly explaining a minimum of five significant issues present during the election. Examples are: Democratic and Republican party platforms; Impact of the debates on the voters; Current global and domestic issues; State of the economy, etc.

The five significant issues that occurred during the election was voter's fraud, absentee ballots, deceased people voting which was also a big part of the voter's fraud, there was also a big issue with the media's interference. Lastly, there was a major issue with propaganda on both sides which interfered horribly on peoples votes and thoughts about the elections. Also, there was a big issue with causing turmoil between people and how people treated each other

- 2. Detail a minimum of five significant points made in Reading no. 11, Code of the Streets (1994) by Elijah Anderson.

In reading no. 11, it talked about the codes of the street. There were a couple things that stood out. In the first section code of the streets it talked about the differences between the street families and the decent families. In the decent there was a social contest on who was the best through finances and looks. As the children grow up, they are instilled with labels. The grandmothers will raise the grandchildren and in most cases the parents will be strict not wanting their children to get caught up in trouble. The parents also cannot cope with physically and emotionally loving their children. Between the decent and street families I would say the decent families are comfortably living life, while the street families are just trying to survive. In the street families they are low are financial recourses, there is always a constant frustration towards bills, food, and even for substances like alcohol and drugs. Most people will have a self-destructive behavior and also have substance abuse problems. There is always constant racial discrimination and there is a lack of patients towards the children which makes the parents aggressive physically and verbally. Lastly the children in most cases will fend for themselves.

For the self-image of those in the street codes it's all about how you present yourself and in most cases, it will be through violent but subtle messages for example your facial, gait, and verbal expressions. Your image will also be based off of your looks of your grooming, clothing, jewelry, etc. People are always looking to fight to increase respect or "juice" and also what you wear is how well you will get respect especially among your peers. To gain respect people must show that they cannot be messed with. One way of gaining more respect and having a higher status is by taking peoples things from them, it can also be done by taking a person's honor with what you say to them. The more people you put down the higher you go up in statues, this is a place of fight and not flight.
