

Education and Social Control: Applying Perspectives (Lesson 8)

Prior learning expected	Next lesson/ related lessons
Lessons on all the perspectives and education	Social class differences in educational achievement – material deprivation

Aims and objectives/ signposting	Key concepts, sociologists, research studies and examples
This is a research task designed to get students thinking about the role of education in contemporary society. They could use the material in this lesson to answer any question on perspectives. Of course, they may even get a specific question about education and social control!	Several, as in this blog post here.

Main lesson activities
Timing	Main tasks	Notes
• 0.00 • 0.60	• Intro task – students give their first thoughts on the scenario in the Hand-out • Intro task 2 – students brainstorm the surveillance techniques in their school/ college • Students listen the Thinking Allowed Podcast on Surveillance (it is interesting!) • Students research in pairs/ small groups arguments and evidence for and against school being an effective agent of social control. • Plenary – get students to explain what their strongest evidence for and against is, and their thoughts on a conclusion.	You could assign different aspects of social control to different groups.

Research on Teaching Global Issues John P. Myers, 2020-06-01 This edited book is the first full length volume exclusively devoted to new research on the challenges and practices of teaching global issues It addresses the ways that schools can and do address young people s interest and activism in contemporary global issues facing the world Many young people today are passionate about issues such as climate change world poverty and human rights but have few opportunities in schools to study such issues in depth This book draws on new research to provide a deeper understanding and examples of how global issues are taught in schools The book is organized in two sections 1 contexts and policies in which global issues are taught and learned and 2 case studies of teaching and learning global issues in schools The central thesis is that global issues are an essential feature of democracy and social action in a world caught in the thrall of globalization Schools can no longer afford to ignore teaching about issues impacting across the world if they intend to keep young people engaged in learning and want them to make their own communities and the greater world better places for all

The Phenomenological Heart of Teaching and Learning Katherine Greenberg, Brian Sohn, Neil Greenberg, Howard R Pollio, Sandra Thomas, John Smith, 2019-01-10 This book presents a carefully constructed framework for teaching and learning informed by philosophical and empirical foundations of phenomenology Based on an extensive multi dimensional case study focused around the lived experience of college level teaching preparation classroom interaction and students reflections this book presents evidence for the claim that the worldviews of both teachers and learners affect the way that they present and receive knowledge By taking a unique phenomenological approach to pedagogical issues in higher education this volume demonstrates that a truly transformative learning process relies on an engagement between consciousness and the world it intends
