

The Structure of a Descriptive Essay

Introduction

- Capture your reader's attention and identify your subject.
- Provide background information.
- State your thesis (dominant impression)

Hook your readers: Grab your readers' attention quickly with an interesting introduction. Begin with a mysterious statement, a funny story, or a question. Then, clearly identify the subject of your essay.

Explain the context

Provide your readers with background information that will help them understand

State your thesis (dominant impression): This helps to organize your essay into something more than a random, unrelated set of impressions.

Body

- Use a variety of details(sensory, factual, figurative).
- Include thoughts and feelings.
- Arrange the details into a logical order.

Pile on the details To help your readers visualize your subject, engage all of the senses—not just sight—in your essay. Tell how things smell, taste, sound, and feel. Remember that factual details such as size or age can help paint a picture for your readers.

-Include thoughts and feelings. Tell your readers your thoughts and feeling about your subjects.

-Arrange the details into a logical order. Use spatial order, chronological order, or order of importance.

Conclusion

- Reemphasize the dominant impression.
- Summarize the material you have discussed.

Close with a flourish To remind your readers why the subject you are describing is important, restate your dominant impression.

The Descriptive Essay Structure:

Descriptive Writing, Grades 3-5 (Meeting Writing Standards Series) Kimberly A. Williams, 2000-06 Powerful Writing Structures Adrienne Gear, 2020-02-06 This timely book uses thinking structures to deepen student writing. It revolves around brain pockets to help students appreciate the qualities of different writing forms. Some powerful examples include memory pockets for personal narrative writing, fact pockets for nonfiction, and imagination pockets for story writing. Detailed lesson plans are featured along with sample anchor books and book lists. Based on extensive classroom testing, student samples throughout the book illustrate this unique approach to teaching writing. Suggestions for setting up an effective writing program and assessment tips for guiding instruction complete this comprehensive approach to developing a year-long writing program.

Paragraph Writing Fred Newton Scott, Joseph Villiers Denney, 1893 How to Write an Essay Gr. 5-8 Brenda Rollins, 2009-09-01 Take the fear out of writing essays and empower your students by giving them the tools to comprehensively express their point of view. Our resource breaks down the writing process while exploring the four different kinds of essays. Start off by learning what is an essay before using graphic organizers to help during the prewriting process. Continue this understanding with drafting by completing an informal outline. Then go into great detail when describing something with descriptive essays. Learn how to tell a story with narrative essays. Explain a difficult subject more easily with informative or expository essays. Find out how to change someone's mind with persuasive essays. Finish up the unit with revising, proofreading, and editing practice. Aligned to your State Standards and written to Bloom's Taxonomy, reproducible writing tasks, crossword, word search, comprehension quiz, and answer key are also included.

Writing for Biomedical Sciences Students Harry Witchel, 2020-02-14 This book will equip readers with all the skills needed to write convincing and polished assignments in biomedical sciences. The first part introduces the idea of writing for one's audience and enables readers to understand what's expected of them from different types of assignment. Part two provides detailed guidance on specific writing and presentation tasks with individual chapters on essays, lab reports, reflective writing, posters, and presentations. Parts three and four cover all of the key skills needed for successful writing in the biomedical sciences and help students develop a critical eye when selecting and researching information and create clear, well-structured assignments. Chapters contain top tips, examples, and helpful summaries of key points, and three annotated sample assignments are provided in an appendix. This is an essential companion to any student studying biomedical science or related disciplines such as physiology, biomedical engineering, pharmacy, medicine, and dentistry.

College Academic Writing A Genre-Based Perspective Dr. I Wy. Dirgeyasa, M.Hum., 2017-01-02 The College Academic Writing A Genre-Based Perspective course book is organized based on genre perspective. It teaches and trains the students about the writing process and content writing. It also guides them to identify to whom the writing is for, what purpose it is, and to what context it is used. It is commonly understood that in teaching writing to students with low entry level of English proficiency, there is always the risk of sacrificing creativity in order to achieve accuracy or vice versa College Academic Writing A Genre Based Perspective is designed to guide and help students about the process of writing and the product of the writing itself in such a way that the final work of writing is not only expressive and rich in content but also clear and accurate as well as relevant to their needs
