Commonplaces Ian Barnard, 2014-10-15 In Upsetting Composition Commonplaces Ian Barnard argues that composition still retains the bulk of instructional practices that were used in the decades before poststructuralist theory discredited them While acknowledging that some of the foundational insights of poststructuralist theory can be difficult to translate to the classroom Barnard upends several especially intransigent tenets that continue to influence the teaching of writing and how students are encouraged to understand writing Using six major principles of writing classrooms and textbooks clarity intent voice ethnography audience and objectivity Barnard looks at the implications of poststructuralist theory for pedagogy While suggesting some evocative poststructuralist pedagogical practices the author focuses on diagnosing the fault lines of composition's refusal of poststructuralism rather than on providing solutions in the form of teaching templates Upsetting Composition Commonplaces addresses the need to more effectively engage in poststructuralist concepts in composition in an accessible and engaging voice that will advance the conversation about relations between the theory and teaching of writing

The End of Composition Studies David W Smit,2007-03-29 Setting forth an innovative new model for what it means to be a writing teacher in the era of writing across the curriculum The End of Composition Studies urges a reconceptualization of graduate work in rhetoric and composition systematically critiques the limitations of current pedagogical practices at the postsecondary level and proposes a reorganization of all academic units David W Smit calls into question two major assumptions of the field that writing is a universal ability and that college level writing is foundational to advanced learning Instead Smit holds writing involves a wide range of knowledge and skill that cannot be learned solely in writing classes but must be acquired by immersion in various discourse communities in and out of academic settings The End of Composition Studies provides a compelling rhetoric and rationale for eliminating the field and reenvisioning the profession as truly interdisciplinary a change that is necessary in order to fulfill the needs and demands of students instructors administrators and our democratic society
