The Human Organization of Time Allen C. Bluedorn, 2002. Particularly valuable to those involved in the management and organizational sciences, since much material from those fields informs the discussion, this book considers several answers to the question of the true nature of time. Walking the Footsteps of a Forgotten Revolution Steven Nyole Fuller, 2025-03-17. Walking the Footsteps of a Forgotten Revolution details the bold and audacious insurrection in the opening phase of the German Revolution of 1848-1849. Friedrich Hecker, the most gifted young politician of his day, attempted to lead a group of rebels through Southwest Germany in hopes of fomenting a full-fledged revolution. The forces in play during the ten-day insurrection lay bare the larger historical factors that would plague German aspirations for freedom and democracy for the next hundred years. Steven Fuller's engaged theory beautifully unfolds as he walks the actual two-hundred-mile route of the insurrection, simulating the conflict in real time and in the real landscape of the rebellion. Skillfully combining elements of pure historical narrative and high theory with the best aspects of travel literature, the author creates an engaging and readable story filled with drama and a cast of colorful characters while, at the same time, using the events of one hundred seventy-five years ago to weave in today's issues of political engagement and violent insurrection.

The Day Rome Was Built John Davis, 2011-02-16. Quick but weighty read that fans of dystopian and historical fiction will enjoy. Kirkus Reviews: Herman Rosenfeld wakes up in an alternate 1997 where the Fascist powers won World War II. The United States still exists but has not been immune to the cultural contagion of intolerance and hatred; the Fascist states have spread. Herman works to figure out the point where his new world diverged from his old one. He realizes he knows who caused this divergence and, with his alternate-world grandson Josh, he sets off for Rome, the capital of the Fascist New Roman Empire, to find the man responsible: Vito Armini. Through his quest to find a way home, Herman grows to love his new grandson and witnesses the tragedy that one man's power-seeking has wrought upon the world.
