Third-Generation Holocaust

Narratives Victoria Aarons, 2016-09-30 This collection of new essays examines third generation Holocaust narratives and the inter generational transmission of trauma and memory This collection demonstrates the ways in which memory of the Holocaust has been passed along inter generationally from survivors to the second generation the children of survivors to a contemporary generation of grandchildren of survivors those writers who have come of literary age at a time that will mark the end of direct survivor testimony This collection in drawing upon a variety of approaches and perspectives suggests the rich and fluid range of expression through which stories of the Holocaust are transmitted to and by the third generation who have taken on the task of bearing witness to the enormity of the Holocaust and the ways in which this pronounced event has shaped the lives of the descendants of those who experienced the trauma first hand The essays collected essays written by renowned scholars in Holocaust literature philosophy history and religion as well as by third generation writers show that Holocaust literary representation has continued to flourish well into the twenty first century gaining increased momentum as a third generation of writers has added to the growing corpus of Holocaust literature Here we find a literature that laments unrecoverable loss for a generation removed spatially and temporally from the extended trauma of the Holocaust The third generation writers in writing against a contemporary landscape of post apocalyptic apprehension and anxiety capture and penetrate the growing sense of loss and the fear of the failure of memory Their novels short stories and memoirs carry the Holocaust into the twenty first century and suggest the future of Holocaust writing for extended generations

Motherhood, Fatherland, and Primo Levi

Robert Pirro, 2017-09-05 Motherhood Fatherland and Primo Levi The Hidden Groundwork of Agency in his Auschwitz Writings offers

major new insights into the political dimensions of Levi's thought by using those texts conventionally thought to be marginal to his oeuvre i.e. his short works of science fiction and fantasy and his World War Two partisan novel to deepen our understanding of the lessons he offered in his more well known and celebrated texts Survival in Auschwitz and The Drowned and the Saved. Typically cast as one of the most profound theorists of what human beings at their worst can do to one another, Levi appears in this book as in addition a theorist who affirms a politics of active and broad participation in republican institutions as an important means of achieving a fulfilled human life. This book reinterprets Levi's political significance by bringing to bear two literatures that have been previously missing from scholarly considerations of Levi's legacy: psychologically informed analyses of how infantile and toddler experience of and relationship to a primary caretaker shape later perceptions of self and relationship and studies of Machiavelli's variant of republican thought in which major emphasis is placed on founding institutions of civic participation that develop responsible political leaders and foster good citizenship. In the aftermath of the so-called Arab Spring which has given rise to people acting on their worst impulses, ethnic cleansing, genocide as well as on their best, revolution, democratic constitutionalism, Levi's legacy considered more comprehensively can be a valuable touchstone for understanding the democratic possibilities of a world undergoing rapid political change. Avoiding academic jargon and entanglement in hyper-specialized academic debates, Motherhood, Fatherland and Primo Levi offers that comprehensive understanding to scholars across many fields: Italian studies, political theory, cultural studies, women's studies, Holocaust studies, history as well as to general interest readers of a humanistic bent and citizens concerned to make sense of this revolutionary age. Connecting Literature and Science Jay A. Labinger, 2021-11-18. This book presents a case for engagement between the sciences and the humanities. The author, a professional chemist, seeks to demonstrate that the connections between those fields of intellectual activity are far more significant than anything that separates them. The book combines a historical survey of the relationships between science and literature with a number of case studies that examine specific scientific episodes, several drawn from the author's own research, juxtaposed with a variety of literary works spanning a wide range of period and genre: Dante to detective fiction, War and Peace to White Teeth to elicit their common themes. The work argues for an empirical, non-theory-based approach, one that is closely analogous to connectionist models of brain development and function and that can appeal to general readers as well as to literary scholars and practicing scientists who are open to the idea that literature and science should not be compartmentalized.

Testimonies of Resistance Nicholas Chare, Dominic Williams, 2019-09-01. The Sonderkommando, the special squad of enslaved Jewish laborers who were forced to work in the gas chambers and crematoria of Auschwitz-Birkenau, comprise one of the most fascinating and troubling topics within Holocaust history. As eyewitnesses to and unwilling abettors of the murder of their fellow Jews, they are the object of fierce condemnation even today. Yet it was a group of these seemingly compromised men who carried out the revolt of October 7, 1944, one of the most celebrated acts of Holocaust resistance. This interdisciplinary collection assembles careful investigations into how the Sonderkommando have been represented by themselves and by others both during and after the Holocaust
