Selected Short Stories by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, This is an account of the wanderings of a spiritualist geographical and speculative Should the reader have no interest in psychic things if indeed any human being can be so foolish as not to be interested in his own nature and fate then this is the place to put the book down It were better also to end the matter now if you have no patience with a go as you please style of narrative which founds itself upon the conviction that thought may be as interesting as action and which is bound by its very nature to be intensely personal I write a record of what absorbs my mind which may be very different from that which appeals to yours But if you are content to come with me upon these terms then let us start with my apologies in advance for the pages which may bore you and with my hopes that some may compensate you by pleasure or by profit I write these lines with a pad upon my knee heaving upon the long roll of the Indian Ocean running large and grey under a grey streaked sky with the rain swept hills of Ceylon just one shade greyer lining the Eastern skyline So under many difficulties it will be carried on which may explain if it does not excuse any slurring of a style which is at its best but plain English There was one memorable night when I walked forth with my head throbbing and my whole frame quivering from the villa of Mr Southey at Merthyr Behind me the brazen glare of Dowlais iron works lit up the sky and in front twinkled the many lights of the Welsh town For two hours my wife and I had sat within listening to the whispering voices of the dead voices which are so full of earnest life and of desperate endeavours to pierce the barrier of our dull senses They had quivered and wavered around us giving us pet names sweet sacred things the intimate talk of the olden time Graceful lights signs of spirit power had hovered over us in the darkness It was a different and a wonderful world Now with those voices still haunting our memories we had slipped out into the material world a world of glaring iron works and of twinkling cottage windows As I looked down on it all I grasped my wife s hand in the darkness and I cried aloud My God if they only knew if they could only know Perhaps in that cry wrung from my very soul lay the inception of my voyage to the other side of the world The wish to serve was strong upon us both God had given us wonderful signs and they were surely not for ourselves alone I had already done the little I might From the moment that I had understood the overwhelming importance of this subject and realised how utterly it must change and chasten the whole thought of the world when it is whole heartedly accepted I felt it good to work in the matter and understood that all other work which I had ever done or could ever do was as nothing compared to this Therefore from the time that I had finished the history of the Great War on which I was engaged I was ready to turn all my remaining energies of voice or hand to the one great end At first I had little of my own to narrate and my task was simply to expound the spiritual philosophy as worked out by the thoughts and experiences of others showing folk so far as I was able that the superficial and ignorant view taken of it in the ordinary newspapers did not touch the heart of the matter My own experiences were limited and inconclusive so that it was the evidence of others which I quoted But as I went forward signs were given in profusion to me also such signs as were far above all error or deception so that I was able to speak with that more vibrant note which comes not from belief or faith but from personal experience and knowledge

Supernatural Tales of Arthur Conan Doyle* A. C. Doyle, 2013-01-17 How often have I said to you that when you have eliminated the impossible whatever remains however improbable must be the truth Sherlock Holmes When Holmes wearied of mundane Victorian reality he reached for the cocaine his creator Doyle reached beyond reality to the occult mystery world as real to him as a hansom cab so real that it became part of his fiction It is no surprise that in the year A Study in Scarlet appeared 1887 this versatile writer was reading seriously in spiritualism attending s ances and had already written some of the thrilling tales in this book The Best Supernatural Tales of Arthur Conan Doyle gathers together for the first time in an American edition the fifteen finest short stories in this genre by the master storyteller Relative to his vast literary output Doyle wrote comparatively few stories dealing specifically with spiritualism Egyptian magic psychometry and other occult domains he knew so thoroughly and these scattered stories skeptically dismissed or simply buried beneath the mass of his detective historical sports medical and other pieces have yet to receive their due as superior or typical examples of his narrative power The polymath Doyle has recourse to many twilight borderline realms of the beyond in these stories which appeared in various periodicals from 1880 to 1921 The Bully of Brocas Court gives a new slant to the Victorian ghost story in one of Doyle's favorite settings the world of boxing The Captain of the Polestar recalls the weird northern backdrop of the author's whaling adventures The Brown Hand deals in body soul bondage with a touch of the East Two hackle raising histories Lot No 249 and The Ring of Thoth depend on the riddle of Egyptian mummy lore The Leather Funnel and The Silver Hatchet involve psychometry a material object's retention of an aura or memory of its past which a sensitive being can replay through dreams And then there is J Habakuk Jephson's Statement Doyle's speculative solution to the Marie Celeste conundrum which was vehemently denounced when published anonymously because it seemed so true and so terrible Doyle readers students of the occult and anyone who loves an imaginative tale will wish to experience through these obscure rarely reprinted stories what was personally so close to their author
