The Deaf House

Dafydd Stephens, Lesley Jones

The Deaf House:

The Deaf House Joanne Weber, 2013 The Deaf House is Joanne Weber's life story. It illustrates the work and passion of a woman who grew up deaf and became an advocate for the deaf. It is a story of pain, loss and defeat balanced with joy, gain and victory. Joanne Weber's creative memoir shows how deafness can be a brutal oppression of the mind. Her torment of not knowing exactly where she belonged in Deaf culture is revealed with blunt honesty and in facing it she constructed in her imagination a deaf house where deafness was a sense of personhood, not a hearing loss and language could be scorned and dismissed. After much internal turmoil Weber realized that her inherent identity was that of a Deaf individual. The Deaf House details the struggles that resulted from her fierce attempt to protect that identity. Combining the narrative tools of a novelist with those of a documentarian Weber effectively provides the reader with rare insight and profound truths about the lives of the deaf. It is a powerful story of an indomitable woman's desire to discover her true self. The Deaf House is an absolute must read for every reader especially parents of deaf and hard of hearing children, educators and administrators in the areas of deaf education, special education and educational policy. Gary Malkowski, L.H.D. formerly North America's only Deaf Parliamentarian. In scene after poignant scene Joanne Weber maps not only the deaf body but also a woman's life with its triumphs and sorrows. This is a love story and a family story evoking both laughter and tears. Above all it is a human story. Jeanette Lynes, author of Archive of the Undressed. The Deaf House, 2014 The Deaf House Alexandra Hampton, 1995

The Effects of Genetic Hearing Impairment in the Family Dafydd Stephens, Lesley Jones, 2006-10-02 There has been an explosion of studies in the field of genetic hearing impairment in the past decade associated with major advances in our understanding of the mechanisms and conditions involved. However, a recent review has highlighted the very limited number of studies on the effects of such hearing impairment on the individuals and families of those concerned. In The Effects of Genetic Hearing Impairment in the Family under the aegis of the European Union GENDEAF programme the editors have taken the first steps to address this deficit in our knowledge and understanding of this topic. The book addresses the problem by secondary analyses of existing large scale population studies by prospective investigation of individuals with a family history of hearing impairment and by specific studies on patients with otosclerosis and neurofibromatosis 2 and their families In addition several chapters look at the specific impact of deaf culture ethnicity and religion on reactions to deafness and the specific needs in genetic counselling This book represents an important first step in this field and should be an invaluable resource for all professionals involved with people with hearing impairments
