The Separatist Conflict in Sri Lanka Asoka Bandarage, 2008-11-19 The book provides a detailed historically based analysis of the origin evolution and potential resolution of the civil conflict in Sri Lanka over the struggle to establish a separate state in its Northern and Eastern provinces This conflict between the Sri Lankan government and the secessionist LTTE Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam is one of the world's most intractable contemporary armed struggles The internationally banned LTTE is considered the prototype of modern terrorism It is known to have introduced suicide bombing to the world and recently became the first terrorist organization ever to acquire an air force The iron law of ethnicity the assumption that cultural difference inevitably leads to conflict has been reinforced by the 9 11 attacks and conflicts like the one in Sri Lanka However the connections among ethnic difference conflict and terrorism are not automatic This book broadens the discourse on the separatist conflict in Sri Lanka by moving beyond the familiar bipolar Sinhala versus Tamil ethnic antagonism to show how the form and content of ethnicity are shaped by historical social forces It develops a multipolar analysis which takes into account diverse ethnic groups intra ethnic social class caste and other variables at the local regional and international levels Overall this book presents a conceptual framework useful for comparative global conflict analysis and resolution shedding light on a host of complex issues such as terrorism civil society diasporas international intervention and secessionism

Sovereignty, Space and Civil War in Sri Lanka Anoma Pieris, 2018-10-25

Analyses of the Sri Lankan civil war 1983-2009 overwhelmingly represent it as an ethnonationalist contest prolonging postcolonial arguments on the creation and dissolution of the incipient nation state since independence in 1948. While colonial divide and rule policies, the rise of ethnonationalist lobbies, structural discrimination and majoritarian democracy have been established as grounds for inter-ethnic hostility, there are other significant transformative forces that remain largely unacknowledged in postcolonial analyses. This ambitious multiscalar spatial study of civil war in Sri Lanka offers an intersectional and ethnicised analysis of political sovereignty drawn out by the struggle for territory. Based on vital retrospective findings from the five-year postwar period when wartime hostilities were still festering, it convincingly links ethnonationalism to postnational border politics, marketisation, militarised securitisation and illiberal democracy. This book argues that internecine conflict exposes the implicit violence within nation state formations, mass human displacements heighten collective and individual ontological insecurity, and neoliberalism makes the nation porous in unforeseen ways. Based around three themes: normative spaces, human mobilities and exilic states, it is organised into ten comprehensive chapter-based explorations of a range of spatial units including homes, cities, routes, camps and experiences of ruin that were irrevocably politicised by protracted conflict. Focusing on their material transformations over a thirty-seven-year period, the book explores what can be known of the war if we look beyond ethnicity to other salient shared geographical features of this embattled history. The book uncovers how fealty to exclusionary cultures of political sovereignty aligns us with their violence, limiting our capacity for empathy, a boundary seemingly exacerbated by neoliberal opportunities. Making use of Sri Lanka as a case study to test geographic, architectural and urban methodologies for understanding violence, this book acts as a provocation to rethink current readings of the particular case study while reflecting on the more general impact of marketisation and militarisation in Asia. It will be of interest to an interdisciplinary audience including those scholars interested in South Asian history, politics and civil war, South Asian studies, border studies, geography and architecture and urban studies.

Tsunami Recovery in Sri Lanka Dennis B. McGilvray, Michele R. Gamburd, 2013-05-13. The Indian Ocean Tsunami which devastated 70 percent of Sri Lanka's coastline and killed an estimated 35,000 people was remarkable both for the magnitude of the disaster and for the unprecedented scale of the relief and recovery operations mounted by national and international agencies. The reconstruction process was soon hampered by political patronage by the competing efforts of hundreds of foreign humanitarian organizations and by the ongoing civil war. The book is framed within this larger political and social context, offering descriptions and comparisons between two regions: southwest vs. eastern coast and four ethnic communities: Sinhalese, Tamils, Muslims and Burghers, to illustrate how disaster relief unfolded in a culturally pluralistic political landscape. Approaching the issue from four disciplinary perspectives: anthropology, demography, political science and disaster studies, chapters by experts in the field analyse regional and ethnic patterns of post-tsunami reconstruction according to different sectors of Sri Lankan society. Demonstrating the key importance of comprehending the local cultural contexts of disaster recovery processes the book is a timely and useful contribution to the existing literature The Middle East and North Africa Alasdair Drysdale, 2024-10-15 This contemporary text the first in over a decade on the region presents the geography of the Middle East and North Africa defined as the Arab World Israel Turkey Iran and Afghanistan Thematically organized the book's eleven chapters focus on the region's physical and climatic setting demographic characteristics migration patterns religious and linguistic diversity political map offshore claims oil and gas resources and subregions and states Within this framework Drysdale emphasizes pressing current problems the impact of climate change in a region where some areas already suffer from extreme summer heat and aridity the challenge of providing additional water in a region where per capita availability of freshwater is already the lowest in the world the impact of high fertility and rapid population growth in a fragile environment where economies are often unable to absorb young workers entering the labor force the looming prospect of an aging population the effects of out and in migration the diverse impact and role of Islam in daily and public life the integrative consequences of linguistic and ethnic diversity the evolution and imperfections of the political map ongoing territorial and boundary disputes that often have global repercussions external dependence on the region's prolific oil and gas resources and the extreme regional inequalities associated with their presence or absence This timely and insightful analysis is essential reading for students of the region who need a better understanding of key regional characteristics challenges and issues Enhancing Skills in Sri Lanka for Inclusion, Recovery, and Resilience Shobhana Sosale, Seo Yeon Hong, Hiran Herat, Shalika Subasinghe, 2023-12-29 Sri Lanka is at a crossroads There is an urgent need to enhance skills in Sri Lanka to increase inclusion support recovery and build resilience This report addresses these issues and provides recommendations for strengthening skills and improving education Situation Report on International Migration in East and South-East Asia Regional Thematic Working Group on International Migration Including Human Trafficking, 2008
